Mayor: Alcohol laws will take months

■ By Mark White

mwhite@williamsburgnewsjournal.com

Following last week's alcohol sales referendum in Williamsburg, city leaders are busy trying to figure out the next steps before legal alcohol sales can take place, but it could be several months before the beer taps start flowing.

Even then, alcohol sales provide no guarantee that restaurants serving alcohol will be successful, if history is any indication.

By a vote of 533-519 last Tuesday, Williamsburg voters authorized the sale of alcohol by the drink at restaurants, which seat at least 100 people and derive 70 percent or more of their profits from food sales.

Whitley County Clerk Kay Schwartz said that the election results were certified by her office on election night, and there was no request for a canvass.

Williamsburg Mayor Roddy Harrison said he is currently doing research and talking with the Kentucky Alcohol Beverage Control Commission to find out the next steps the city must take.

Among other things, he is obtaining copies of ordinances passed by other towns, which have passed similar referendums.

“This is not an over night thing. It is not going to happen over night, and should not happen over night because you do not want to make mistakes. You want to do what's right,” he said.

“We are going to move at a steady pace, but not too quick of a pace.

University of the Cumberland's student-athlete Brendon Kelly is headed to Miami this week on what will hopefully be his first step in his goal to achieve “total victory.”

The all-American football and track star is one of 125 men and women chosen to participate in the first round competition of American Ninja Warrior.

“My dad initially applied for me,” Kelly said when asked how he was chosen for the competition. “He sent in a five-minute video of me explaining why I should be picked for the show. They liked it.”

Kelly's video shows him completing his own version of Ninja Warrior's infamous “cliff hanger” obstacle, using a spiral staircase on campus as the cliff.

The video includes arguably his greatest comeback, as he told the story of how he has come back to participate and excel in both sports despite five surgeries during which doctors removed one of the Williamsburg Police Chief Wayne Bird is praising his officers for exercising restraint during an arrest early Friday afternoon where he says they would have been legally justified in using deadly force to subdue an elderly man, who was armed with a knife.

“He put the officers in a lethal force situation. I think Mike Taylor and Brandon Prewitt used extreme discretion because they were in a lethal force situation,” Bird said. “They were justified in using deadly force and they chose not to. I commend them for that.”

County Attorney accused of being ‘unethical’

Motion seeks Moses' removal from DUI case

■ By Trent Knuckles

tknuckles@corbinnewsjournal.com

Two Corbin lawyers are accusing Whitley County Attorney Don Moses of “unethical” and “improper” behavior, and claims that he should be forced to remove himself from a case because he has violated the “prosecutor's code of conduct.”

In a motion filed March 21, Corbin defense attorneys David O. Smith and Brandon West are asking a judge to remove Moses as prosecutor from the case involving their client, Wendell Ralph Canada. Canada was arrested last June for first-offense DUI, failure to or improper signal and careless driving, all misdemeanor offenses.

In an affidavit date Feb. 23 of this year, Canada's father, also named Wendell Canada, claims Larry Patrick contacted him on Feb. 14 on Moses' behalf and said that the County Attorney needed to speak

Stolen jewelry found by local inmates during road cleanup

■ By Trent Knuckles

tknuckles@corbinnewsjournal.com

A Whitley County Jail inmate work detail successfully picked up 54 bags of trash along a Corbin roadway last week, discovering the remnants of several old one-step methamphetamine labs, and even some suspected stolen jewelry.

Inmates from the jail worked along a stretch of Browning Road. The effort was initiated by Second District Whitley County Constable Ron “Bubba” Bowling, whose district includes the city of Corbin and its immediate vicinity. Bowling said he asked for help from Whitley County Jailer Ken Mobley after finding drug-related material in the ditch line near the road.

“This is the second incident within several months of recovering drug related debris along this roadway,” Bowling said. “As a result, I spoke with Jailer Mobley and requested the roadway to be considered for a work detail to remove the trash in order to insure we have got all the drug-related debris removed.”

Mobley responded by dispatching two inmate work crews along with him.

“On February 15, 2012, when I got home, Mr. Patrick and Mr. Moses were at my house. They told me [my] son, Wendell Canada, didn’t need any more trouble and he sure didn’t need Brandon West as an attorney,” the affidavit reads.

It goes on to say that Moses encouraged Canada to hire another Corbin attorney to represent his son.

“Mr. Moses, told me he wasn’t allowed to tell me to fire them but, if I was to get rid of them and hire another lawyer in Corbin, I can’t recall his name, all the charges would go away. If David and Brandon stayed in the case, my son would end up with jail time.”

“When I informed Mr. Moses I could not afford to hire another attorney, he told me he would postpone the cases and give me time to hire someone else,” Canada contends in the affidavit. “I took all of the aforesaid as threats.”

Smith and West are asking for a hearing on the motion to be set for April 4 at 9:00 a.m. in Whitley District Court in Corbin. A jury trial in the case has been set for the same day in Williamsburg before District Judge Fred White.

Moses did not return a call seeking comment Tuesday.

with Deputy Jailers Danny Hoke and Mike Faulkner to the area. In all, the groups collected 54 bags of trash along with tires, plastic buckets and various other items in just over a mile stretch of Browning Road.

Also discovered was a pillowcase containing jewelry suspected to have been stolen. Bowling said the jewelry was turned over to the Corbin Police Department so that they could attempt to find the owners of the property.

Corbin Police Public Affairs Officer Rob Jones said Tuesday that at least one person had come to the police station to identify the jewelry since it had been turned in. The jewelry was returned. Much of it, he said, was low value costume jewelry.

Mobley instituted the work release program shortly after being appointed Jailer. Inmates work all across the county picking up trash and helping out municipal governments as well as the county’s fiscal court. He said he is proud of what the program has accomplished, and pointed to the recent cleanup effort as just one way as one way it has a positive impact on the community.

“The inmates and Jail staff do a real good cleaning up troubled areas within the county,” Mobley said. “It would be fair to say that this program has picked up thousands of tons of trash and garbage since I implemented it six years ago.”

Free tickets still available to see Giuliani

■ By Mark White

mwhite@corbinnewsjournal.com

Free tickets are still available to hear former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani speak at the University of the Cumberlands next week.

Giuliani will speak on "Principled Leadership in a Time of Crisis" during the program at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the O. Wayne Rollins Center, which is being presented by the University of the Cumberlands and the Forcht Group of Kentucky Center for Excellence in Leadership.

Tickets, which are required for admission to the leadership program, are available on a first come, first served basis.

University officials said Monday that there are still a limited number of tickets available, and are encouraging area residents to attend.

For free tickets to the leadership program, visit University of the Cumberlands' website, <http://www.ucumberland.edu> or call the ticket line at (606) 539-4432.

Giuliani served as mayor of New York City from 1994 to 2001, during which time he worked to reduce crime and make improvements to the city's welfare system. In 2001, Giuliani was named Time magazine's "Person of the Year" for his steady leadership in the aftermath of 9/11. In 2002, Giuliani founded Giuliani Partners, a professional services firm specializing in emergency preparedness, public safety and leadership during crises and financial management. He is also a partner at the law firm Bracewell & Giuliani LLP.

Cumberlands' annual lecture series is made possible by an endowment from local business owners Dr. Terry and Mrs. Marion Forcht, who founded the Forcht Group of Kentucky Center for Excellence in Leadership in 2006.

The purpose of the center is to provide programs and activities that enhance the development of leadership, character and good citizenship. Past speakers in the series have included Roy Moore, Karl Rove and Mike Huckabee.

Harrell seeking info in order to honor fallen Whitley Co. officers

■ By Mark White

mwhite@corbinnewsjournal.com

Whitley County Sheriff Colan Harrell is asking for the public's help in gathering more information about seven Whitley County law enforcement officers, who were killed in the line of duty.

Harrell is hoping to track down relatives of the deceased men in an effort to find out more information about them.

Frequently stories about relatives are passed down from generation to generation, but Harrell said he doesn't know where to start looking for information about the men.

"Some of them, I don't even have their date of birth. I don't know how old they are," he said. "I would just like to make a record of it, and give them recognition because they made the supreme sacrifice. I feel like they should be recognized in one way or another."

Harrell plans to place a plaque dedicated to those officers somewhere in the courthouse, possibly in his conference room.

The seven Whitley County officers killed in the line of duty since Whitley County was founded in 1818, include:

- Deputy Sheriff William Sadler was killed on Feb. 29, 1892 while attempting to arrest a drunk in Corbin.

- Deputy Sheriff Zeb Ward was killed on May 9, 1907 when Henry Trammell shot him.

- Deputy Sheriff Carlo Jones was killed on Sept. 24, 1909 when he was shot with a pistol in Bell County on a train while attempting to break up a domestic dispute.

- Deputy Sheriff William Monhollen was killed in 1922 with a shotgun and an ax while collecting taxes.

- Deputy Sheriff John Mays was killed in 1923. Four people were charged, Joe Pearl Fuson, Walter Fuson, Marna Fuson and Tom Fuson.

- Jellico Kentucky Police Chief George S. Smiddy was killed on May 12, 1926 with a pistol while answering a domestic call.

- Whitley County Sheriff Elvin Patrick was killed in 1959 while making an arrest.

Harrell said that so far what information he has been able to gather is from old newspapers, but is incomplete and more information is needed.

Anyone with more information on the seven officers is asked to contact Harrell at his office at 549-6006.

He added that Patricia Jones, who works at the Whitley County Public Library and is active in the Whitley County Historical and Genealogical Society, was instrumental in helping him gather what information he has so far.

Harrell said he started doing research on the project about one year ago when he has free time, which isn't often.

During that time, he has come across some interesting information.

For instance, in 1959, there were four different sheriffs in one year.

Patrick was killed in office on Jan. 17, 1959.

Fiscal court gets $410,581

■ By Mark White

mwhite@corbinnewsjournal.com

During a special called meeting Tuesday afternoon, the Whitley County Fiscal Court approved the first reading of a $410,581.33 budget amendment.

Whitley County Judge-Executive Pat White Jr. said the special meeting was held so that the final reading can take place during next month's regularly scheduled fiscal court meeting.

At that time, the money, which is unanticipated revenue, will be distributed to the appropriate places. In most cases this will be reserve funds.

$43,003 is in excess fees from the county clerk and $47,555 is in excess fees from the current sheriff. The current sheriff's excess fees will go back to that department.

$30,858.33 is the total from three tax accounts belonging to the former sheriff that Whitley County Attorney Don Moses has filed suit to recover. $6,055.41 is from the ex-sheriff's 2006 tax account, and $24,802.91 is from the ex-sheriff's 2007 tax account.

Whitley County Treasurer Jeff Gray said the money will be distributed next month in accordance to the state auditor's directions.

$111,154 is county road aid money from the state.

White and Magistrate Jamie Fuson noted that the money is tied to state revenues that were higher than expected.

White said that this money would be used in the road department. A lot of it will probably go towards pipe and gravel expenses since 90 percent of the budgeted money for those two areas has already been spent this fiscal year.

$22,584 is from additional coal severance funds.

"We produced more coal than was anticipated," White added.

$126,794 is for reimbursements, and the remainder of the money comes from various sources.

Corbin, Knox still battling over student reciprocal agreement

■ By Dean Manning

dmanning@corbinnewsjournal.com

For the third time, the Knox County Board of Education has refused to enter into a student reciprocal agreement with the Corbin Board of Education. For the third time, the Corbin School Board has asked Kentucky Education Commissioner Terry Holliday to require Knox County to enter into the agreement. For the third time, Holliday has told the two boards to permit students already attending the other school system under the most recent agreement (2009-10), and their siblings to continue to do so and for the two boards to enter into mediation in an effort to find a permanent solution.

That is what the 20-page letter the Corbin School Board received from Holliday said, in a nutshell. Holliday was asked to weigh in on the matter for the 2012-13 school year by the Corbin School Board, in what Superintendent Ed McNeel called a necessary step in the dispute, as the student reciprocal agreements are renewed annually.

In his letter, Holliday noted Corbin and Knox County had a reciprocal agreement for approximately 30 years with the exception of one year, before the Knox County Board of Education voted not to renew the agreement for the 2010-11 school year. Holliday added that at the same time, the Knox County School Board voted to enter into similar agreements with several other school systems.

At the time, Knox County Schools Superintendent said the decision was a matter of money, noting the school system was losing approximately $1.3 million in funds from the Support Education Excellence in Kentucky (SEEK) Program because of the discrepancy in the number of students from Knox County attending Corbin Schools versus the number of Corbin students coming to Knox County.

The Corbin School Board met Monday night for a work session to discuss possible options in response to Holliday's decision.

Board Chair Kim Croley said while the board members talked about their options, including appealing the decision to the Kentucky Board of education, no formal decision will be made until the next regular board meeting on April 12.

"My only concern is what is best for our students," Croley said.

Circle K annexation cleared

■ By Dean Manning

dmanning@corbinnewsjournal.com

After confirming that city services can be provided to the Circle K property on Falls Highway and the former site of Mitchell Stone on U.S. 25E in Knox County and that both pieces of property are contiguous to the current city limits, the Corbin Planning and Zoning commission unanimously approved a motion recommending the city commission move forward with annexing the properties into the Corbin City Limits.

Corbin Building Inspector Frank Burke noted one issue with the application on behalf of the Circle K property. It was filed by Lori Morehead, whom Burke said was initially believed to be a lawyer filing the paperwork on behalf of the property owners. However, he later learned she was in fact part of a regional manager for the Circle K stores. Under Kentucky Law, the request for annexation must come from the property owner.

Burke told the commissioners that prior to the meeting, Henry Gilmore, one of the individuals listed on the deed as owning the property, came in and signed the application.

Burke recommended and the commissioners agreed that both tracts should be zoned "C-1" commercial, which is for general business.

The next step is for Burke to send all of the information to Corbin City Attorney Bob Hammons so that he can draw up an ordinance. The ordinances will be brought before the Corbin City Commission where they must be read and approved twice. The ordinances go into effect upon publication in the newspaper of record.

Corbin City Manager Mike Phillips said he expects the first reading of both ordinances to be on the agenda for the next regular meeting, which is scheduled for April 9.

Hammons Tuesday said he has the last of the information he needs and expects to have the ordinances ready in time for the meeting.

More good people need to run for political office

To the Editor:

When I moved to Kentucky years ago, I thought it was a very beautiful place, and had some really good people.

However, Whitley County has been saddled with a very significant problem for many years. It is the complete absence of people willing to run against the corrupt officials that have been in office for years.

I commend Bobby Blakely for running against Gary Barton for Whitley Circuit Clerk. We need more people to find the courage and the backbone to stand up against the sheriffs, attorneys, and especially the Commonwealth Attorney and the judges and all their family members who work in this county and have kept it corrupt all these years We need qualified people to stand up and deliver new leadership to the county. We deserve much better. We deserve a fair and honest place to live and call home.

Corbin police helped me in my time of need

To the Editor:

Back in early fall or late fall, I ran out of gas near Corbin exit 25 on I-75 south. Late afternoon motorists going by called Corbin Police and they responded. They took me to exit 25 to the Shell station and helped me get some gas, then took me back and put gas in the car for me. The cars passing by was so close to the policeman I was very frightened for him.

I could not have had a nicer man than the policeman. I want to thank the Corbin Police for their help. Again, thank you to the policeman that helped me.

Impact of alcohol vote may take time to see

So, was anyone else surprised by the results of last week's alcohol vote in Williamsburg? I'll admit that I was, and I daresay much of the town - no matter which side you were on - probably agrees with me.

I expected a close election, but a 14-vote margin on the wet side was surprising.

Only time will tell if this vote brings more economic prosperity to town in addition to beer, wine and whiskey sales. Either way, I don't think this will bring ruination to the town, only change, which can be scary.

A week before the vote, Williamsburg Mayor Roddy Harrison announced that two groups of investors planned to open franchise restaurants in Williamsburg if alcohol sales were approved.

I don't doubt Harrison's sincerity and that this is the information he was given. I still have my doubts that Williamsburg will get franchise restaurants, such as Applebees, O'Charley's or TGI Fridays.

I believe that it's more likely the town will get a couple of new restaurants, which are locally or regionally owned, like a Dino's Restaurant in Corbin.

Quite frankly, I don't care what name is on the restaurant or whether it is a franchise or locally owned. For me the big test is whether the food will be any good.

If there is another battle in this fight, I suspect it will be holy war of sorts on whether to allow Sunday alcohol sales.

While the Williamsburg "moist" vote for alcohol sales by the drink in restaurants surprised me, London voting down packaged alcohol sales probably shocked me more.

Usually Corbin and London will do stuff simply to keep up with one another, and the London vote is particularly surprising in light of Corbin's decision to allow package alcohol sales only weeks earlier.

For better or worse, it looks like many London drinkers will soon be driving to Corbin to buy their booze.

Now for a few other thoughts before I conclude this column.

• I found Trent Knuckles story in last week's News Journal about Corbin

See WHITE, page A-7

On the P.A. the student prayed, 'Please Lord let our team win'

As a child I would try to make a deal with the Lord to let UK win. When I got a little older I realized how foolish this was. However, once I did hear a college student in a pre-game prayer over the P.A. system ask the Lord to let her team win. Saturday in the Kentucky - Louisville game we'll have to rely on which team plays the best.

Basketball has always been my favorite sport. But while it is enjoyable, it can also drive you nuts, mainly because of the referees or when your team can't hit the broad side of a barn.

The officiating in the NCAA tournament has taken away from the enjoyment of the game. Referees are missing too many calls and blowing the whistle on phantom fouls. They act like we tune in to see them rather than the teams. Blown calls can change the outcome of the game.

The replays are making them look bad. But if they should consult the replay monitor on every close call it would take days to complete a game. My question, why can't there be a replay official at side court that could make a quick decision on questionable calls? Heaven knows those of us at home can call the play much quicker than referees huddling at the scorer's table.

Then there are the blocking-charging calls. Using Anthony Davis as an example in the Baylor game, it is easy to see that the offensive player initiated the contact on three of his fouls. Davis had his hands straight up when the contact was made. Why not just ignore the contact unless the defensive player brings his hands down? That would take away some of the cheap calls the offensive players are getting.

Don Estep
Commentary

Then let's move to high school basketball this year. Boring! I've never seen so many low scoring games. Mike Fields, sports writer for the Herald-Leader, called this year's state tournament the most boring he had ever seen. Amen!

In some states a shot clock is used in high school basketball. It is time to install it in Ky. high school basketball.

The shot clock in college basketball is 35 seconds. Often you will see teams hold the ball for 20 or more seconds and then start a play. The answer to this is to cut the time down to 24 seconds like the pros. Stand around basketball went out when North Carolina's Dean Smith retired.

Now to Rick Pitino. Other than the births of his children was winning over Florida the "best day of his life?" Come now, wasn't winning the national championship at UK just as good?

No doubt, Pitino is a great coach, but sometimes I think the poor man is losing it by the way he constantly yells from the sideline. I do appreciate him abandoning UK though so we could get Calipari.

CBS, please retire Clark Kellogg! There are many better analyst. We had to put up with Billy Packer for years and what do they do, replace him with Kellogg. Ugh!

Come Saturday my nerves will be on edge. This can be said for most people in the Commonwealth. Fun and exciting? Yes and no. If UK wins, it will be fun, but if they lose I will be in a deep state of depression for weeks to come.

Best kept secret... just heard the Globetrotters were at The Arena in Corbin Tuesday night. Promotion in this newspaper would have informed our twenty thousand plus readers.

Failure to enforce local pet ordinances is annoying

I think you should be able to walk or jog the streets of Corbin without fear of being attacked or mauled by people's pets.

This is not a crazy statement. I don't believe I'm offering up some insane or radical idea here.

I've complained numerous times about the lack of enforcement in this town when it comes to pet owners allowing their animals to roam free.

This is not the African Serengeti! We are not on Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom! Corbin is not a nature preserve, but a densely populated city, by rural Kentucky standards. People live in close proximity to one another. They walk the streets, or ride bikes, for pleasure or exercise or just to get around. Allowing your dog to run free in this sort of setting is stupid. The liability is enormous. It is obvious we have no shortage of stupid, inconsiderate people living in our city.

A week and a half ago, I was bitten by a rather large dog while jogging. The attack was unprovoked. Hundreds of dollars in medical bills have resulted. Kentucky's laws are VERY clear when it comes to dog bites off a dog owners' property. Yet, getting this into our court system has been an uphill battle, the reasons for which I simply can't understand.

A few days after the incident I was doing a trial run of the route for the Tri-County Conquer race held this past Saturday. No fewer than THREE loose dogs ran out at me VERY aggressively. One of them was a particularly nasty and vicious looking German Shepherd on Caldwell Street that is an ongoing nuisance in the neighborhood. I took down all the addresses and turned each in to the police as a violation of our city ordinances. I'm not sure what happened. I can tell you, though, the exact same dog that ran out on me a few days earlier also accosted the winner of the race Saturday. It seems little was done to this non-compliant dog owner.

Par for the course.

Little has EVER really been done

Trent Knuckles
Check This Out

to deal with this problem. All I've ever gotten over the years when I ask questions about this is excuses and baloney.

I was told our city ordinance regulating animals in Corbin (which, by the way, is much more strict than state laws) had been repealed. Nope. It remains on the books.

I've been told numerous times that the city must have an animal control officer to enforce provisions of the ordinance. There is no such requirement.

Actually, the ordinance is a perfect example of how laws get passed in this city and then totally forgotten.

People are supposed to get a city license for their dogs or cats. This is never done. There's much more. You should read it.

There's jail time and fines for letting your pets run loose. Citations are rare. Sometimes people are given a stern talking to, maybe, if they egregiously flout the law. That's about it. It's an annoying lack of enforcement.

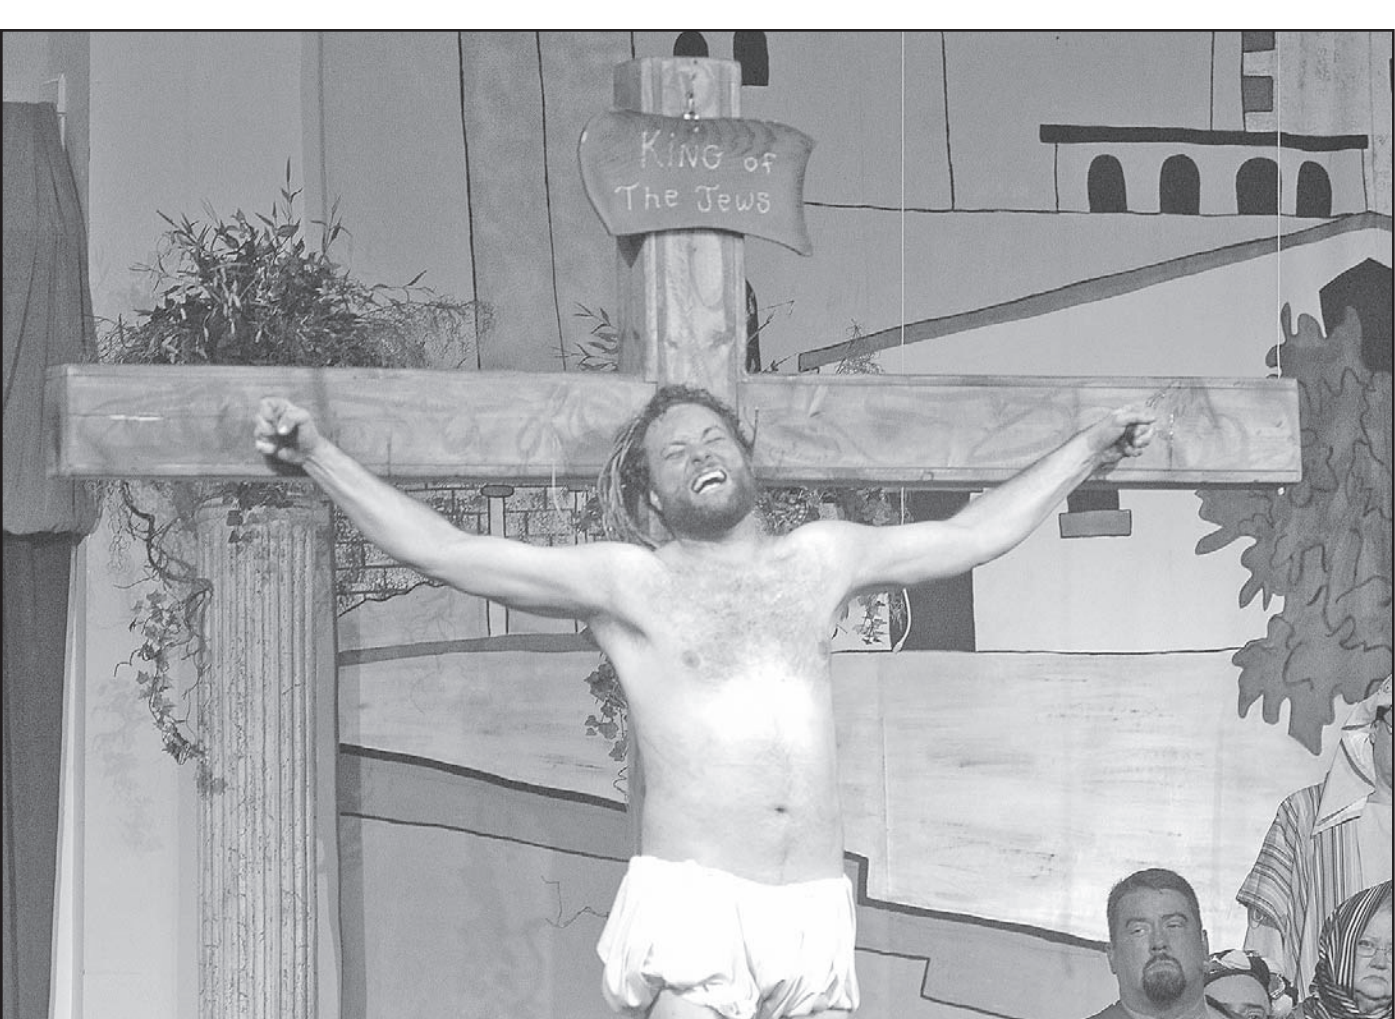

Perhaps I'm the only one that cares. Maybe everyone is fine with having to carry a can of mace everywhere to fend off the local wildlife.

If you aren't fine with it, here's the plan. Every time you see a dog running loose and you can easily tie it to a certain residence, write it down and report it to our local police. Follow up. Ask them for records to prove that your complaint was responded to and taken seriously. Don't back down. Be persistent. That's what I'm going to do. I probably will make a few enemies because of this. It is pretty common for citizens, when they get aggressive about asking more from their government, to be scorned and ridiculed. I've seen it a million times. So, whatever. Bring it on.

These laws should be enforced. It's pretty simple. Corbin is on the verge of fining people for having garbage cans that are too big, of all things. Surely to goodness if they are going to do that, they can muster the fortitude to take care of our animal problem as well.

BBC looking for long-time local couples

■ By Trent Knuckles
tknuckles@corbinnewsjournal.com

Producers from the British Broadcasting Company (BBC) are searching for local couples who have found ways to make their relationships stand the test of time, despite living in an era when divorce rates are at an all time high.

The as yet untitled documentary will appear on HBO sometimes around Valentine's Day 2013, said Marshall James, a researcher for BBC Worldwide Productions. James now lives in California, but is originally from Lexington and is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University and Marshall University.

"Kentucky is just a nice place where the south meets the Midwest. You have a good culture spread there, so we were hoping to find people from the state with interesting stories," said James. "A lot of times, people think they are normal, so why would we be interested in them. Even if people think they are ordinary, they usually have really interesting stories to tell and it is worth hearing. I want to talk to as many people as I can."

The film will be a warm, endearing look at love and relationships. In a world where fewer and fewer couples are getting married, and where nearly half of marriages end in divorce, James said BBC is wanting to take a positive look at the people who are together; the couples who stay together through the good times and the bad.

The final film will include eight to 10 couples. Essentially, the documentary will be a series of conversations with the couples about their relationship and their thought on what has made their relationship work.

Documentary Director Philippa Robinson said she wants couples willing to have honest and frank discussions about their relationships.

"My father passed away last year. My parents had been married for 53 years when he died," Robinson said. "I used to look at them and wonder how in the world they managed that. It really intrigues me to this day. That's why I'm asking other people."

"You know, when you first meet someone special, there is that fabulous flush of romance. Your knees go weak and your stomach goes a bit wiggly, but that goes after a time. We want to know what happens for people after that and what makes them stay together for the long term," Robinson said. "We are looking for people that we can identify with so we can learn something. If one person watches this film and thinks to themselves, I can change my relationship for the better ... I think I can be happier, then it was worth it."

Robinson said.

Robinson said she did a similar documentary that aired in the United Kingdom. HBO saw the film and was anxious for a version featuring American couples. She's been working as a filmmaker for over 25 years, as a freelancer, but most of her work is with the BBC.

Filming for the documentary is slated to begin in mid-April. James said anyone who knows a couple who might make an interesting subject for the film is encouraged to contact him or Robinson with the BBC at 1859-552-5524 or by email marshall.james@bbcaproduction.com.

"He was just in office a few days, and he was murdered," Harrell noted.

Will "W.C." Hamblin was appointed to serve until the November election, but died on March 18, 1959.

Andy Shelton was then appointed and served until Otis Croley was elected in November to serve out the remainder of the term, which went through 1962.

In 1922, Monhollen was killed while trying to collect taxes, which Harrell noted is a contrast to today when the sheriff accounts for taxes.

"The individual he was trying to collect taxes from was apparently intoxicated, and took a shotgun and blew off most of his arm. He tried to leave and they ran him down and killed him with an ax," Harrell said. He added that Kentucky is only one of three or four states where the sheriff collects taxes. In most other states, the sheriff also oversees the jail.

Motel dispute leads to arrests

■ By Trent Knuckles

A disturbance at a Corbin motel led to the arrest of two people from Barbourville last Friday for drug-related offenses.

According to Corbin Police, 33-year-old Elizabeth Bunch and 28-year-old Stephan Roark, 28, were arrested after a report of a problem at the Landmark Inn on Cumberland Falls Hwy. Ptl. Mike Bisschop responded to the complaint and found that Bunch had been in an argument with her fiancé, Roark. Police began to investigate and determined Bunch had two separate warrants for her arrest for theft by deception (cold checks) and she was placed under arrest.

She was searched and police discovered five different types of prescription controlled narcotics. Bunch also had a "sizable amount of cash," police say.

She was placed under arrest and charged with three counts of first-degree possession of controlled substances, two counts of third-degree possession of controlled substances, trafficking in controlled substances first and third degrees, and for having a prescription controlled substance not in original container. Roark was arrested for public intoxication. Bisschop is continuing an investigation into the case. Sgt. Glenn Taylor Jr. and Ptl. Ken Proffitt assisted.

Roark and Bunch were lodged in the Whitley County Detention Center. Bunch remains in jail on a $15,000 cash bond. Roark is free on bond pending trial.

Croley promoted

■ By Mark White

Starting this summer, Whitley County High School will get its third assistant principal.

Principal Alan Sweet announced Monday the selection of Amanda Croley as the new assistant principal at Whitley County High School.

"Mrs. Croley is an outstanding teacher and demonstrates a passion for her students and a commitment to making decisions, which are in the best interest of students. One of her greatest strengths is building positive relationships with students and staff," Sweet said.

Beginning July 1, 2012 Croley will supervise the new freshman academy, which opened in the fall of 2011.

The Whitley County Board of Education voted unanimously on March 8 to create the additional principal position.

Superintendent Scott Paul noted that when the freshmen academy opened, the idea was to create a school within a school. "Mrs. Croley's wide-ranging teaching and leadership qualities will add additional skills and perspective to a talented high school leadership team," Paul said.

For the past 10 years, Croley has taught English and social studies at Whitley County High School. Currently she teaches AP English 3 and both English and social studies in the freshman academy. She brings to her new position a strong knowledge base of working with high school students and overall student achievement.

As assistant principal, Croley will work closely with the students, parents, staff and principals to further Whitley County High School's mission of providing instructional programs in which every student can learn at his/her highest possible level. "I am honored to have been selected to work with the outstanding staff of Whitley County High School. I am thrilled to be given the opportunity to work with the faculty and parents to ensure that the youth of our community are provided an excellent education," Croley said.

Croley has taught for 12 years. She is married to Ben Croley, a science teacher at Whitley County High School. She will join Rachele Rice and Alan Ysidro as the third assistant principal on staff.

KSP drug raid nets 19 Corbin residents

■ By Dean Manning
dmanning@corbinnewsjournal.com

In the first of what Kentucky State Police expect to be multiple rounds of arrests, 19 Corbin residents were among the 26 individuals arrested on various drug trafficking charges.

According to Trooper First Assistant Don Trosper, public affairs officer at Post 11 in London, arrest warrants were secured against the suspects following a 13-month investigation into illegal drug activity in the area led by KSP Detective Don Sivels and Senior Trooper Chris Roberts.

Friday morning state police with the aid of Laurel County Sheriff's Deputies, Williamsburg Police, Laurel County Detention Center staff and Laurel County Constable Denver Mays, spread out across Laurel and Whitley counties to serve the warrants.

The individuals arrested from Corbin/Whitley County included:

- Tiffany Wicker, 23, second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance and two counts of possession of Naphthylprovalerone in Laurel County
- Geraldine Lynch, 57, Corbin, four counts of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance and four counts of second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County
- Clifton Tuttle, 30, Corbin, four counts of second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County
- William Robert "Bobby" Mayes, Jr., 22, Corbin, two counts of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County
- Jennifer Mills, 26, Corbin,

three counts of second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- Gary Maggard, 56, Corbin, second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- April Rookstool, 33, Corbin, three counts of second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Whitley County

- Judi J. Proffitt, 37, Corbin, first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance and two counts of second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- Thorold "TJ" Johnson, 20, Corbin, three counts of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- Samantha Caffrey, 22, Corbin, second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- Stanley Harris, 62, Corbin, three counts of trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- George T. Griffey, 28, Corbin, first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- Carol Caffrey, 46, Corbin, two counts of second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- Michael Rednour, 23, Corbin, first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance, second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance and persistent felony offender in Laurel County

- Amy Proffitt, 34, Corbin, three counts of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

- Brandy Bass, 32, Corbin, first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance in Laurel County

Success stories: First Lady Jane Beshear came to Corbin March 21 to visit Independence House as part of her effort to gather more information about the needs of substance abuse rehabilitation facilities. Beshear was in Corbin at the invitation of the staff who explained a $400,000 grant that had helped cover the majority of the operating costs was lost in October. Beshear said she would do what she could to help Independence House and similar facilities to ensure they could continue to provide the services that are so desperately needed. Independence House is 15-bed in-patient facility, primarily serving pregnant women.

State house, senate mull separate bills on occupational tax sharing

Corbin leaders vow legal fight if passed into law

■ By Trent Knuckles
tknuckles@corbinnewsjournal.com

There is now Kentucky legislation in the Kentucky General Assembly to change how cities and counties divvy up occupational tax revenues, but leaders from the city of Corbin say if either of the versions is signed into law, they plan to fight it in court as illegal legislation.

Kentucky Senate President David Williams (R-Burkesville) and State Senator Robert Stivers (R-Manchester) both have introduced amendments to a tax amnesty bill that would essentially change the ground rules for how occupational taxes are divided.

Leaders in Corbin and Knox County are keenly interested in the fate of these measures because it would directly affect a four-year-long fight between the county and city governments over the issue.

"The net effect of these floor amendments is to permanently deprive Corbin of over $1 million per year in revenues, and redistribute that money to Knox County," reads a press release, distributed by the city of Corbin and its attorneys this week.

"Corbin is faced with either a permanent and substantial loss of revenue or double taxing Laurel residents - something Corbin leadership has refused to contemplate."

Recently, the Kentucky Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal filed by Knox County over the issue, paving the way for Corbin to begin keeping all of the one percent tax on employee net wages and business net profits. All that stands in the way of Corbin beginning collection of the tax is a hearing over county population likely to go Corbin's way.

In response, earlier this month, Stivers introduced SB 200 as a way to fend off the court decisions that would allow Corbin to keep all tax revenue collected within the city limits. Currently, all the money goes to the Knox County Fiscal Court. Recently, Stivers introduced an amendment to House Bill 499 that mirrors his senate bill.

Also introduced is an amendment by Williams, whose senatorial district includes the Whitley County side of Corbin, which would change occupational tax distribution as well, but is somewhat more favorable to cities. It says that a city that has levied the tax, but has not collected it before March 15, 2012, would get to keep one half of the money collected upon passage of the law.

City leaders worry that even if Williams' more favorable amendment becomes law, it could imperil a deal they already have in place with the Whitley County Fiscal Court that allows the city to keep 75 percent of the taxes collected inside the city limits.

Stivers has defended his version of the legislation as a way to protect Knox County from being financially unable to provide necessary services to its citizens if it is deprived of revenue from the Corbin portion of the tax.

Corbin originally filed a lawsuit asking for a ruling on the issue in 2008. In that time, Corbin Mayor Willard McBurney said the city has spent about $165,000 on legal fees to fight the case.

Corbin City Commissioner Joe "Butch" White, who is a plaintiff in the lawsuit against the Knox County Fiscal Court, said Tuesday that Corbin would take the fight "back to the courts" if the law is changed.

"We would most definitely do that," White said. "There's no question about it."

Todd McMurtry, the attorney who is representing the city in the lawsuit, said he feels both measures are "special legislation," something that is illegal under the Kentucky constitution. Essentially, laws cannot be crafted to target single communities or areas.

"The reason Corbin thinks that the proposed floor amendments are special legislation is because they apply only to Corbin and because there is no natural reason for introducing the legislation other than undoing the [Kentucky] Court of Appeals decision that was affirmed by the Kentucky Supreme Court."

HB499 has passed the house and is current in Senate committees being discussed.

Knox County officials have been silent on the issue.

Williams could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

Friday is deadline for Corbin PD applications

■ By Dean Manning
dmanning@corbinnewsjournal.com

The Corbin Police Department will be administering the police entrance examination on April 10 at Corbin Middle School.

The exam is the second step in the process to fill four vacant positions at the department.

In order to be eligible to take the exam, individuals must complete the first step by filling out and returning an application to the Corbin City Clerk's Office by 4 p.m. Friday.

"The applications are kept on file for one year," said Corbin Police Officer Major Rob Jones. "Anyone who has filled out an application within the last year may take the exam. If you filled out an application about this time last year, you should check at the clerk's office to make sure your application is still valid."

Applicants must be at least 21 years of age and have a clean driving history. Those who pass the exam will also have to undergo a thorough criminal background investigation and physical fitness/agility test and a state required polygraph, drug screening and psychological examination.

The Corbin City Commission gave Chief David Campbell approval to fill the four positions during the March commission meeting.

Campbell said when the positions are filled it will bring the department back up to a full complement of 23 officers.

The additional officers are budgeted for in the department's current operating budget so it will not cost the city any more money to add them to the force.

ALCOHOL: Issue of Sunday sales is still up in the air

From the front page

We are going to move at a pace that is right for Williamsburg.”

Two existing restaurants in town, El Dorados and Hong Kong Buffet, are apparently interested in selling alcohol, Harrison said.

He added that he has already contacted the two investors, who promised to open franchise restaurants in Williamsburg if the moist vote passed.

“I said, ‘Here’s the vote, now what?’ I have still been assured that the two new restaurants will be coming,” Harrison said. “I don’t think it is going to be over night. I’m afraid that’s what people think that if it doesn’t happen over night, then here we go.”

He said the two investing groups seem to want to take a step back to make sure they put the “right” restaurants in for Williamsburg.

Harrison said that he is still not at liberty to say, who the two groups are.

City regulation

Harrison said there is a lot of work to do before the issue of a license to sell alcohol can even be discussed.

The Williamsburg City Council has 60 days to pass an ordinance setting hours when alcohol can be sold, which is usually 6 a.m. - midnight Monday through Saturday. Local government bodies can also vote to allow alcohol sales after 1 p.m. on Sunday.

Harrison said he hasn’t polled any council members about their stance on Sunday alcohol sales.

He said the advice he has gotten is to contact other cities to see what they have done on Sunday sales, and then think through “what will attract a business and what is best for Williamsburg?”

The ordinance will set fees that can be charged, including an annual $900 state fee, a $250 annual federal fee, and a city fee up to $1,000. Corbin charges an $800 annual fee. The council can also levy a 6 percent alcohol sales tax.

In addition, the city will have to appoint an alcohol beverage control administrator or board to oversee the regulations. In Corbin, the position is currently handled by the assistant police chief.

Harrison said that he has spoken with Williamsburg Police Chief Wayne Bird about possibly serving in that role, but that state alcohol officials have told him there are pros and cons to having the police chief serve as the city alcoholic beverage administrator.

After Corbin voters approved an identical alcohol sales referendum on May 20, 2003, it took the Corbin City Commission about six weeks to approve its 14-page alcohol ordinance, which involves a 27-page liquor license packet for applicants.

Harrison said that it’s possible state alcohol officials may be asked to make a presentation to the city council before an ordinance is approved so city officials can become more educated on the process.

“I want to assure people that we are going to do what is right,” he said. “We are not going to let this get out of hand that was never what this issue was about any way. We are going to do what’s right for this town. I can promise that.”

Harrison said he doesn’t feel the alcohol referendum was about just restaurants, as much as it is about the perception of town and the perception of Williamsburg in the future.

“Restaurants are a good first step, but what else can happen?” he added.

Corbin alcohol

In Corbin, it took over nine months after voters approved alcohol sales before the first alcoholic drinks were served.

On Dec. 31, 2003, El Dorados became the first restaurant to file for a liquor license in Corbin. On Feb. 26, 2004, the restaurant became the first to legally serve alcohol to the public in Corbin since the 1950s. The move resulted in business that first weekend tripling for El Dorados.

As 2004 progressed, Angels and Wings got the second liquor license in late April followed by O’Malley’s applying muscles in his calf.

“It was the muscle that makes your ankle move,” Kelly explained.

Kelly said he was injured while playing safety and returning punts for the Patriots Football Team after taking repeated blows to the same spot on the leg during the 2010 season.

Following the surgeries, the doctors told him he would be lucky to be running in five months.

“I came back in two and a half months and had my first track race,” Kelly said.

The competition in Miami is one of six regional competitions. The first round of each regional competition will consist of a course contain six obstacles. The top 30 in that competition will return Thursday to take on nine-obstacle course. The top 15, or those with the fastest times if more than 15 manage to complete all of the obstacles will move on to Las Vegas for their shot at, “total victory.”

The winner and runner-up of American Ninja Warrior 2012 will not be going to Japan to compete on the famous course on Mount Midoriyama as in years past. Working with NBC, which will tape and air the finals, the course has been duplicated in Las Vegas for the finalists.

“The networks (NBC and G4) collaborated with the original Japanese broadcaster, Tokyo Broadcasting System Television, to bring the competitive course over to the U.S.,” NBC officials stated, noting in the 15 years of Ninja Warrior competitions, only three men have completed all four stages to achieve, “total victory.”

The finals are tentatively scheduled for April 21 and 22.

The winner, whether he or she achieves total victory or not, will receive $500,000. While the money is appealing, Kelly said he has another goal on his mind as well.

“I can’t miss track,” said the junior, who runs in the 800 meters, four by 400 meters and four by 800 meters races.

However things turn out in Miami, Kelly said even his family and friends will just have to tune in to G4 which will be showing the preliminary rounds beginning at 9 p.m. May 20. The finals will be broadcast on NBC at 9 p.m. May 28.

“If I tell anyone what happened before it airs, it is like a $100,000 fine,” Kelly said.

ATTACK: Man was just ‘mad at the world,’ Chief says

From the front page

and lodged him in the Whitley County Detention Center.

The incident began shortly after noon Friday when police received a call about Carr allegedly pulling a knife on a man at Cumberland Regional Mall.

The victim told police that an elderly man in a red jacket approached him, and tried to get inside his van. The victim got out of the vehicle on the other side, and approached Carr thinking that he might be having some kind of medical emergency.

“When he went around to see what the guy was wanting, he said the guy pulled a knife and swung it at him. The victim had a small child in the vehicle with him,” Bird said.

The victim was able to get back inside his vehicle and lock the doors. Then he yelled at Carr that he was going to call police, and Carr took off.

While Bird and Freeman were searching the mall for Carr, K-9 Officer Brandon Prewitt spotted him across the street from the mall outside of Smith Auto near the Ky. 92E and US25W junction.

Sgt. Mike Taylor, who was off-duty, joined Prewitt along with Williamsburg Fire Chief James Privett, who was working nearby.

“As they approached him, he immediately told the officers he wasn’t going anywhere, and he pulled a pocket knife out on them,” Bird said. “Mike Taylor was able to talk him down enough to catch him off guard and the officers took him to the ground.”

As police were wrestling Carr to the ground, he kicked Prewitt in the groin.

Carr apparently suffered a minor cut to one finger with his own knife as officers wrestled him to the ground.

Whitley County EMS treated Carr at the scene before he was taken to jail. He was released on bond shortly before midnight Friday.

Bird said that it was very fortunate that neither Carr nor officers were seriously injured.

He said that Carr didn’t display any signs of Alzheimer’s or any signs of mental illness.

“He said he was mad about something to do with his ride. He was just mad at the world I guess,” Bird added.

W’BURG POLICE CHIEF

WHITE: Garbage service needs modernized

garbage cans being condemned to be pretty funny, especially since the mayor’s garbage cans were among them. (Sorry Willard, but it’s just kind of funny.)

I’ve gotten behind Corbin garbage trucks before, which still have one guy driving and two guys riding on the back picking up garbage cans by hand and dumping the trash into the trucks. This method of garbage collection is antiquated.

A private company that has one man in each truck does my garbage collection. We have the big curbside cans with the wheels on them, and the lone garbage man hooks it up to the lift, pulls the lever, dumps the trash and then wheels it back to the curb.

The article quotes Gary Kelly, Director of the Corbin Public Works Department, as saying the city doesn’t have trucks with big lifts on them, and that it’s expensive to do so.

What the city is doing now is far more expensive in the long run. If city leaders would bite the bullet and invest in lifts for their trucks and curbside cans, then the Corbin Public Works Department could reduce the manpower on each truck to no more than two guys. One guy driving and one on the back. It could probably be reduced to only one guy, which would save big money in the long run.

Yes, cans eventually have to be replaced, and lifts require maintenance, but you don’t have to pay lifts a salary, insurance or a pension.

In addition to the curbside cans being easier to use, the cans are also harder for animals to get into, which means less litter along city streets.

At the very least, Corbin leaders ought to do a cost-benefit analysis to see if this idea has merit. If you charge customers a one-time fee for the cans, which private haulers do, then you could greatly reduce the costs to only the price of lifts and possibly new trucks.

Corbin, let’s join the 21st century and trash our old methods in favor of modern technology.

How to make your hearing aids work most effectively

If your hearing aids are working correctly, friends and family members could forget that you wear them. However, you may still want to take some steps to make using these instruments easier and more beneficial. For example, ask others to talk more slowly if you are having difficulty understanding what they are saying. If they turn their back on you while speaking, remind them to face you while finishing their sentences.

Ask the person with whom you are conversing to move so the light from a window or lamp shines on his or her face, not on the back of the head. Talk in a quieter area where there are no extra noises such as loud TV sets, dishwashers or air conditioners. Have the person repeat what is said rather than try to bluff your way through understanding. It is better to say something again than not be understood correctly. Write something down if it is necessary to have the information verified.

Do not forget to thank people for their patience and understanding. Humor is always a good way to keep things light and friendly. Be patient with others, and be patient with yourself. If you take things too seriously, everyone will do the same.

A TRUE BLESSING

Photos submitted

A helping hand: Students and faculty at the University of the Cumberlands Human Services Department recently gathered necessities to donate to victims of the recent tornado in East Bernstadt. Above, Sabrina Smith (President of Global Awareness Program) and a student, poses for a photo with items that were donated.

UofC Human Services Dept. helps East Bernstadt tornado victims

■ Staff Report
for the News Journal

When the tornados' came through Kentucky a few weeks ago it affected the lives of many University of the Cumberlands (UC) students, faculty, and staff; as well as others in the community. Several departments and sports teams have taken action by helping in the relief efforts in East Bernstadt assisting with anything that is needed.

UC's Human Services Department took action by collecting items for the victims of the storm after Sabrina Smith (London, KY), a senior at UC who lives in the affected area, asked the department if she could start collecting needed items.

On Tuesday, March 6th, the department started assisting Sabrina's efforts and by Friday, March 9th, they had collected close to $1,000 worth of items. Items that the department collected consisted of paper towels, toiletries, cleaning products, canned foods, first aid items, and cat and dog foods.

Many students along with faculty and staff helped to donate items. Other departments like Student Services and the Health Education department made sizable donations. A student at UC that works at Whitley Pharmacy encouraged her employer to help make a contribution also.

"It was truly a blessing to see so many people caring for others," said Jennifer Knuckles, an assistant professor in the Human Services Department. To help the victims of the severe weather and give to the Disaster Relief Fund, please visit www.redcross.org

Doing their part: Whitley Pharmacy employees, a student with the UofC Human Services Department, along with Assistant Professor Jennifer Knuckles, third from right, show off a large donation box used to gather some of the items that were donated. Several other departments and sports teams from the school have also undertaken similar efforts to help out.

Corbin Little Ceasars top selling MDA fundraiser

■ Staff Report
for the News Journal

MRK Enterprises Little Ceasars has impacted the Greater Kentucky community again by participating in the Shamrocks Against Dystrophy program and raising $12,097 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Participating locations asked their patrons to purchase a $1 green or $5 gold Shamrock. On Thursday, March 29th at 12:30pm, a formal check presentation will be held at 510 Master Street in Corbin, KY.

The Corbin store was the top selling location out of the 9 MRK Little Ceasars that sold the Shamrocks from February 14th-March 18th. Other participating locations are in London, Barbourville, Somerset, Russell Springs, Richmond, Berea, Glasgow, and Campbellsville Kentucky.

This is the second year these locations have sold Shamrocks, last year they contributed $10,000 in Shamrock Sales to the Greater Kentucky MDA Chapter. The money raised will go towards sending local children with Muscular Dystrophy to Summer Camp this June. The support from these locations will give 14 children the chance to attend camp cost free to their families. Little Ceasars has proved that local communities want to give back, and help in the fight against muscle wasting diseases.

MDA Summer Camp is a week long camp where children, ages 6-17, are able to enjoy an activity-packed getaway as they swim, fish, make crafts and more. It costs the nonprofit agency $800 to underwrite a child's camp stay. The non profit with Muscular Dystrophy is invited to attend this summer camp at NO cost to their family.

Camp is just one of the many services MDA offers to local families battling muscular dystrophy. The donations collected by MDA sponsors will also help fund local clinics and support groups, as well as fund vital research aimed at treatments and cures for neuromuscular diseases.

MDA is a voluntary health agency working to find treatments and cures for 43 neuromuscular diseases through programs of worldwide research, comprehensive medical and community services, and far-reaching professional and public health education.

Smart tax advice for the unemployed

What are your tax obligations if you lost your job during the last year? The Kentucky Society of CPAs answers some common tax questions for those who are out of work.

Is my severance package taxable?

If you are let go and receive severance pay from your former employer, that pay is considered taxable income. It will be included on your W-2 form and your employer will withhold taxes on it. Similarly, if your former employer compensates you for the value of any accumulated vacation or sick days, or other types of leave, that compensation is also taxable. Be aware that even companies that go out of business or declare bankruptcy must report your wages and withholding and send you a W-2 form that shows all your income earned. Of course, you will also have to pay any taxes due on wages you earned last year before you lost your job. For wages earned in 2011, you should have received a W-2 from your employer by Jan. 31.

Will I be taxed on unemployment insurance?

Yes, you will also have to pay taxes on state unemployment insurance benefits and any extended benefits you collect.

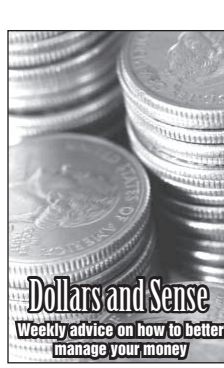

You can ask the state to withhold your taxes for you, just as your employer did, so that you don't have a tax bill waiting for you at filing time. If you qualify for public assistance or food stamps, you will not have to pay taxes on those benefits.

What if my family helps me out?

There are special rules that address the taxation of gifts. Generally, taxpayers are allowed to give another individual up to $13,000 without paying taxes on that gift.

What if I dip into my retirement money?

As a general rule, any money you withdraw from your retirement plan or IRA will be taxed in the year of the withdrawal if you have not yet reached eligible retirement age, generally age 59 ½, and don't roll the money over into another qualified retirement account within 60 days. If you took $10,000 from an IRA in 2011, for example, you'll have to pay taxes on it when you file this year.

In addition, if you have not yet reached eligible retirement age, you'll also owe a 10 percent penalty-or $1,000-for early withdrawal. That's one reason CPAs strongly advise against raiding your retirement account. There are hardship exemptions if you're permanently disabled or have certain medical expenses, so check with your CPA for more information if you believe you qualify.

Also, note that if you want to withdraw any IRA contribution you made in 2011 you can do so without tax or penalty as long as you did not take a deduction for the contribution and you do not withdraw any interest or earnings you made on that contribution.

Are job hunting expenses deductible?

Yes, you can deduct many types of costs, including resume preparation and mailing expenses, employment agency fees and related travel outlays, as well as some moving costs if you relocate to start a new job. Ask your CPA for more details about what's eligible.

What if I can't pay my taxes?

The best step is to get in touch with the Internal Revenue Service immediately and explain your situation. The IRS typically has payment plans available for those who are suffering financial hardship and having a hard time covering their tax bills. You can find more information at 1-800-829-1040 or online at www.irs.gov. If you continue to have trouble settling your tax problems, contact the Taxpayer Advocate Service at 1-877-777-4778. Of course, your CPA can also offer advice in this situation.

Your CPA can help

No matter what your financial situation, your local CPA has the expertise to cut through the complexity and explain your options in language you can understand.

Be sure to turn to him or her with all your financial questions.

Dollars and Sense columns are a joint effort of the AICPA and the Kentucky Society of CPAs, as part of the profession's nationwide 360 Degrees of Financial Literacy program. For a referral to a CPA in your area, go to www.kycpa.org.

How far is a piece?

If you are not native to this area, you might shake your head at some of the colloquialisms we mountain people have built into our everyday speech.

But having grown up hearing them all our lives, we don't even notice them.

They have become part and parcel of the way we express ourselves. Call us provincial, if you will, but that's just the way we are.

That is not to say that our regional dialect can't eventually be understood by non-natives or 'furriners' as they are still portrayed by some of our older inhabitants. Given time, maybe... but it might take awhile.

Which brings me to the point of this little saga:

As it happened, one day while I was reorganizing some books in a bookshelf, I ran across an old volume of articles written by Allen Trout called, "Greetings from old Kentucky." Now, if you are from Kentucky and if you were born before 1945, you may remember that Allen was a popular columnist with the Louisville Courier-Journal around that time. He wrote mostly about ordinary people-folksy human-interest stuff with a good dose of common sense thrown in for good measure.

Allen's dry wit and wry sense of humor clearly showed through in his writings. His dedication in the front of the book to "the bass drummer who didn't make very good music but drowned out a lot of the bad" aroused my interest immediately and before long, I found myself laughing at amusing stories with just as amusing titles such as: "How Square is a Square Meal?" and "Homemade Sin is the Ugliest Sin of All."

But the real clincher was an article called, "How Far is a Piece? Oh, Not Far." It was a term I had heard expressed many times as I was growing up in the hills of Kentucky. It also demonstrated my belief that in our little corner of Appalachia, we do indeed speak a language all our own.

The article was inspired by a newcomer to the area. He had been raised up North and was having trouble interpreting the local jargon. The newcomer wrote:

"I don't want to appear dumb, but tell me, how far is a piece? When I ask people how far it is to So and So's house, they say, 'Oh, it's only a little piece.' Then when I have walked about two miles, I ask somebody else.

Again I get the answer, 'just a little piece.' I usually find the house in another hundred yards or so."

Allen replied with the following:

"I believe I can help you. A 'far piece' is the ultimate in distance. It might stretch to the moon... or, to the ends of the earth. A 'right smart piece' is not as far as a 'far piece' but it's durned far all right.

Now a 'little piece' is just about as far as a man can walk without giving out. A 'little piece' is just about as far as 'two whoops and a holler.' But 'no piece at all' is even farther than that and can fool you nine times out of ten. Let me illustrate it this way:

Say you take a chew of tobacco when you start out somewhere. When you have walked far enough to have chewed and spit all the flavor out, you have come 'no piece at all.'

Vanilla Wafer Cake

- 2 cups sugar
- 2 sticks butter or margarine
- 6 eggs
- 1 (12 oz.) box vanilla wafers, crushed
- 1/2 cup milk
- 7 oz. shredded coconut
- 1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Cream sugar and butter or margarine. Add eggs, one at a time; beat well. Stir in with spoon remaining ingredients, stirring in one ingredient at a time. Bake until brown at 300 degrees for 1.5 to 2 hours in greased and floured tube pan. (Approx. 1.5 hours in greased and floured sheet cake pan.) Cool. Frost with favorite frosting. Cream cheese frosting is good.

Spring is here and in Corbin it is again time for one of the season's most traditional events: the GFWC/Kentucky Ossoli Club's May Day Festival.

On May 4, the 69th annual May Day Festival will be presented at the Arena.

The May Day Festival is a fund raising event for the Ossoli Club. All proceeds are used to fund community service projects, and a portion each year is donated to the school and preschool classes participating in the program. Through your monetary votes for the young ladies competing for May Day Queen and Tiny May Queen, the Ossoli Club has been able to fund or contribute to projects and events such as Corbin's United Effort's Home Skills Classes, furnishing the Community Room at the Corbin Public Library, the Corbin High School Academic Breakfast, the Piano Lab for the middle and intermediate schools, various projects at St. Camillus Academy, the Corbin Community Backpack Club and most recently, the Corbin High School Drama Class trip to the Southeastern Theatre Competition in Tennessee.

Members of the business community have stepped forward to sponsor the Queen candidates. Each of these businesses will have the voting box, a picture and some information about the young lady they are sponsoring. In the past, patrons could vote for any candidate at any sponsoring location. This year, sponsoring businesses will have only the voting box for the candidate(s) they are sponsoring. Don't forget to visit the sponsor of your chosen candidate to vote for her.

All donations are tax deductible. Please make checks payable to The Ossoli Foundation.

We are pleased to announce the following candidates for 2012's May Day Queen:

Hayley Alaina Abbott is the 5'3" daughter of Michael Abbott and Stacey Abbott. She enjoys cheerleading, gymnastics, pep club, dance and student council. She has blue eyes and blonde hair. Her official voting box may be found at her sponsoring merchant, Maggie J's.

Tips to Maintain Stored Food Quality

It's wise to periodically check the quality of condiments and foods stored in your pantry and cupboard.

Proper storage is a good way to maintain food quality. Here are some tips on good food product storage practices.

Store baking powder and baking soda in a tightly covered container and put it in a dry location. Always use dry measuring utensils to dip these out of the container.

To check baking powder freshness, mix one teaspoon with one-third cup of hot water. If this vigorously foams, the baking powder still has rising power.

Put one and one-half teaspoons of baking soda in a small bowl and add one tablespoon of vinegar to determine freshness. If this mixture fizzes, it still will help leaven a food. Old, unstable baking soda still can be used to dispense odors in the refrigerator, near laundry hampers or in infrequently used drawers or closets.

Keep white flour in an airtight container or freezer bag to preserve its moisture content because low or high humidity exposure will affect the moisture content and might influence the outcome of a recipe. At room temperature, white flour will keep six to 12 months. Refrigerated all-purpose and bread flowers will keep up to two years at 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Frozen, they will keep indefinitely.

The ground wheat germ in whole wheat flour contains oil that can become rancid at room temperature. So whole-wheat flour only will maintain its quality for one to three months at room temperature; about six months in the refrigerator; and up to 12 months in the freezer.

Honey stores best at room temperature and will maintain the best quality for up to 12 months. When refrigerated, honey will more rapidly crystallize, a natural process in which the liquid turns solid. Heating honey will dissolve those crystals but might affect the flavor.

An opened can of shortening will maintain its quality for three to eight months; unopened, eight to 12 months. Store shortening in a tightly closed container in a cool, dark place. Remember, shortening stored too long will become rancid and develop an unpleasant taste and odor. Smell shortening before using it in a recipe.

Vegetable oil in an opened container will keep one to six months; unopened, six to 12 months. Store vegetable oil in a tightly closed container and put it in a cool, dry place.

For maximum flavor, brown sugar keeps four to six months. It's critical to keep brown sugar in an airtight, moisture-proof container so it remains moist and soft.

Properly stored white granulated sugar will keep indefinitely. Put it in an airtight container, or heavy, moisture-proof bag, like a freezer bag. Walnut, sesame, hazelnut and almond oils are among the oils that might have a shorter storage life. If you've not used oil in a while, smell to determine if it has become rancid before using in a recipe.

Heat, air, light, and moisture quickly reduce the flavor and color of herbs and spices. Store them in a tightly-covered container in a dark

The Duck Funeral

Whitley Roots

by Patricia Jones

I've had two people mention to me that they can hardly wait for the next installment of a story that has had to be divided in this column. That usually gets me into a discussion about how movies used to have a serial that continued on for several installments. It seemed that the hero or heroine was always left in dire circumstances and it seemed awful to have to wait for a week or two before we found out what happened.

Today's column continues the memories of Alma Hamblin Caldwell who is now 93 years old and lives in Florida. She writes: "All of us children walked to a one-room, one teacher school house for grade school education. There were no school buses so we had to walk wherever we had to go. Some more prosperous folks had a team of mules and wagon. It was always a treat when someone offered us a ride. After grade school some of us went to high school 3 ½ or 4 miles from where we lived. We walked through all sorts of weather to get there. Some went to college and nursing school for higher education. My sister, Irene, and I became registered nurses. My brother and younger sister worked in manufacturing companies to make a living. Some of my brothers served in the armed services during World War II.

My older brother married young. One brother married at age 15 and his bride was also 15. They lived with us for a long while. Birtha, the 15 year old sister-in-law played games along with us. We invented our own games for entertainment. Birtha was first to tell me some about the birds and the bees.

We had some ducks on the farm. One day we found a dead duck in the pen so we decided to give it a funeral. My brother, Roy, laid the duck out on a wide board lying on its back with wings tucked under and feet sticking up. It was a sight to behold! We dug a big hole in the ground for the grave. The funeral began with Brother Roy preaching the service. We all sang hymns, prayed, cried and mourned loudly. Mama was in a field picking beans and heard all the noise. She came home quickly to see what was going on. She thought maybe someone had died and a real funeral was taking place in the cemetery just above where we were playing. She was very upset and threatened to disown all of us. When I hear the hymn "Lord I'm Coming Home", I always think about the duck funeral.

The Hamblins were most all musically inclined. They played mostly stringed instruments. Sometimes the relatives would get together usually on Saturday nights for a music party at different homes in the neighborhood. That was a real fun time for all. Sometimes there was square dancing. Papa played the banjo and guitar, cousins played the fiddle, mandolin, harmonicas and other instruments. We all had marvelous times singing, dancing and playing together. There was always plenty of food for everyone.

When someone built a new house, the neighbors would come and have what they called a "house raising." Men would work all day and the women would cook making cakes, pies and all sorts of goodies to have afterwards. There would also be music and dancing. My sisters and I weren't allowed to dance because Mama thought dancing was a sin.

location away from sunlight, such as a cupboard or drawer. Never store them atop the back part of a stove.

If you have an open spice rack, be sure it's away from heat, light and moisture.

Use the "sniff test" to determine the quality of spices and herbs.

A potent ground spice will have an immediate, strong and spicy aroma when you open the container. Break, crush or scrape a whole spice such as cloves or cinnamon stick to check for freshness.

Do not smell pepper or chili powder because they can irritate your nose.

Periodically smell spices and herbs to discover what "fresh" smells like, and begin to detect when they're losing flavor and color.

Crush a small amount of an herb in your hand and smell it. If it has a fresh, pleasant aroma, it still can add flavor to foods

Since canned foods are a popular staple, here are some tips on the best storage methods.

Canned foods should be eaten within two years of processing for best quality, according to the Canned Food Alliance. Often these foods will have a "use by for best quality" date stamped on the can. Some products have a code, which varies among companies, identifying the production date.

In many food stores, the constant turnover of canned goods means cans will remain on the shelf only a short time before being purchased. If you're concerned about when a canned good was processed, call the manufacturer's toll-free number or write to the address listed on the container.

After opening a canned food, never refrigerate in the can because food can develop an off-odor from the opened container.

a field of sugar cane for making molasses. In the fall they would have cane stripping parties. All the young folks would come and strip the blades from the cane stalks so it could be hauled to a cane mill and big furnace that was centrally located in the community for making everyone molasses. There were always parties to follow. If sweet potatoes were plentiful, big baking pans with hot baked sweet potatoes were served. Milk or water was usually the drinks to be served.

We had a big oak growing at the bend of our road. It had large roots growing all around it. It made good places to sit and rest. Some of the young folks did their courting sitting under that tree. I never did but I used to sit there and meditate or daydream hoping that a big handsome knight in bright shining armor would come riding by on a big white horse and sweep me away. The knight never came by but I'm glad because years later I met my true love, Jack Caldwell. We've been married 57 years and have lived in beautiful sunny Florida for most of that time. We have two sons that make us mighty proud and also we have seven beautiful grandchildren.

The following paragraph was written by Alma in 2004. "Jack and I were married about 61 years. He died January 8, 2003 after a long illness. I have beautiful memories of our happy years together. I love and miss him more everyday. I firmly believe we will be together again in Heaven. I look forward to that great reunion."

Betty Carolyn Hamblin Rains was kind enough to share the above memories that were written by her Aunt Alma. Betty was a preschool teacher for 28 years before she retired. She is married to Charles Matthew Rains. Betty told me that she is the daughter of

Palms and Swords

This coming Sunday is Palm Sunday, a day for Christians to remember Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem. He entered to people shouting praise and placing palm fronds and robes on the ground. Less than a week later, many of the same people would see him as he walked to be crucified and some of those would even call for his death.

I remember enjoying Palm Sunday when I was growing up. My father is an Episcopalian and my mother is a Baptist. I was raised in both denominations always going to Sunday School at the Baptist church, but then alternating between the two denominations for morning worship.

On Palm Sunday we always went to the Episcopal church. The service was very reverent and very appropriate for such a holy time. But the biggest reason we went was because the children received palm fronds as they entered the church. On those Sundays we always sat with me on one end, then my father, then one of my other brothers, then my mother, and then the last of the three of us brothers. With that seating arrangement and the knowledge that we were in church, we could behave.

When we got outside and into the car, the situation drastically changed. Three boys sitting in the back seat each holding a palm frond makes for a far too tempting situation. It did not take long for sword fighting to break out.

If my great aunt saw us, she would immediately order us to stop. The holy palm fronds were not to be used as pretend weapons. But when she had walked away from the car and we had pulled out of the parking lot and were out of sight, the swords flashed again. The palm fronds never lasted long. They would barely survive the short drive home. No one was ever injured. It was just three boys being boys.

That was not the case on that first Palm Sunday when Jesus made his entry into Jerusalem. The people praised Jesus as the Son of David. David had led his army to conquer the land of Palestine. God had used David to fulfill His promise to Abraham and bring all the land under Israel's control. Now that land was governed by Rome.

But maybe this miracle worker who had developed such a passionate following could lead the troops in battle again – not with palm fronds but with real swords.

The crowd might have been somewhat disappointed when Jesus chose not to ride into Jerusalem in a chariot or on a horse. After all, that would be far more appropriate for a king and general. Jesus rode in on a donkey, but since that fulfilled Zechariah's prophecy in the Old Testament maybe the prophecies concerning the restoration of Israel were on the verge of being fulfilled in Jesus.

Jesus was a king but not the kind of king who led his troops into battle to defeat earthly enemies. He gave his life to free us from sin and then rose from the dead so that through faith in him we might have forgiveness and new life – a life both abundant and eternal.

I don't sword fight with palm fronds anymore and I did not encourage my children to follow their father's and uncles' example. Now a palm frond reminds me of that day in Jesus' life and of how quickly my praise and obedience can become ambivalence and disobedience. Time for me to put down the sword, pick up the cross, and follow Jesus, the One I call Lord.

Williamsburg Independent School Board honored at recent meeting

The Williamsburg Independent School Board was honored at the March board meeting.

The board, under the leadership of Dr. John Jeffries, has worked hard to maintain the tradition of this Independent School District. With the new addition to the school, 20,000 sq. ft. has been added to the existing building. New classrooms, bathrooms, offices, and resource rooms are part of this new addition.

With the acquisition of much needed land, the campus has expanded over the past couple of years and additional parking has been built to better serve the school district. Superintendent Dennis Byrd praises the work of this board and continues to work closely with each of them for future improvements for this district.

The members of the board include Chariman Dr. John Jeffries, Vice-Chairman Roger Faulkner, Kim White, Kim Williams, and Allan Steely. The Board Attorney is Paul Croley.

The new addition will be opened for the students following the spring break. Superintendent Byrd thanks the board for the continuing support and excited about the future growth of the Williamsburg Independent School District.

Send your education news and events to society@corbinnewsjournal.com or fax to 606-528-9779. The deadline is Monday at Noon.

Photo submitted

Go Big Blue! Students and staff at Oak Grove Elementary celebrated UK day. Everyone was encouraged to dress in their wildest UK attire. Students in Mrs. McKiddy's first grade received an extra burst of spirit by having their face painted by Mrs. McKiddy because they had rocked on the CTBS test review. Principal Mrs. Faulkner and Assistant Principals Mrs. Crisologo and Mr. Powers joined Mrs. McKiddy and her students to celebrate their achievement.

Cumberlands students inducted into Alpha Lambda Delta

On Monday, March 5, University of the Cumberlands (UC) Chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta inducted their newest members during the Annual Initiation of the Freshmen Honorary Class. Membership is open to full-time freshmen students who earn a scholastic average of 3.5 or better at a four year college or university.

Founded in the spring of 1924 at the University of Illinois by Dean Maria Leonard, Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honor society that recognizes and encourages academic excellence among first year students. Today, Alpha Lambda Delta has over 250 chapters throughout the United States and more than 700,000 students have been initiated into membership since the first chapter was started more than 80 years ago.

During the ceremony at UC, Shannon

Whittenberg (Louisville, Ky.) was elected President, Selby Gibbons (Hamersville, Ohio) was elected Vice-President, and Sofia Molina (Williamsburg, Ky.) was elected Secretary.

The following students were inducted into the 2012 class of Alpha Lambda Delta:

Luke Atkeson, Galena, Ohio; Rachel Carroll, Rockholds, Ky.; Rachel Cook, Stanford, Ky.; Anthony Davis, Williamsburg, Ky.; Brittany Day, Harlan, Ky.; Andre Filipe de Souza, Itabiva, IT; Sarah Ashley England, Versailles, Ky.; Jessica Escalante Guimaraes, Jellico, Tenn.; Kimberly Farr, Kennesaw, Ga.; Selby Dawn Gibbons, Hamersville, Ohio; Joao Vitor Gomes, Florianopolis, IT; Ricki Gomez Hernandez, Morrow, Ohio; Kristina Gramig, Shelbyville, Ky.; Virginia Hallums, Cookeville, Tenn.; Rachel

Hampton, Hopkinsville, Ky.; Mallory Harper, Brodhead, Ky.; Matthew Kelley, Corbin, Ky.; Cody King, Pine Knot, Ky.; Tia Kathleen Kingsley, Weberville, MI; Walter Blake Kusiak, London, Ky.; Matthew Scott Maher, Corbin, Ky.; Shannon Danielle Marcum, Louisa, Ky.; Taylor Mayes, Knoxville, Tenn.; Rebecca McKinney, Williamsburg, Ky.; Sofia Margarita Mena Molina, Williamsburg, Ky.; Chelsea Hope Moberly, Berea, Ky.; Marissa Moorman, Radcliff, Ky.; Madison Neveu, Knoxville, Tenn.; Amanda Newquist, Corbin, Ky.; Angel Norton, Keavy, Ky.; Taylor Purrington, Anchorage, Alaska; Logan Brooke Reynolds, Corbin, Ky.; Kayla Ann Sears, Williamsburg, Ky.; Rachel Sims, Crab Orchard, Ky.; Grahm Smith, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Jonathan Smith, Central City, Ky.; Coleton Terry, Williamsburg, Ky.; Katelyn Turk, Bowling Green, Ky.; Russell Daniel Upchurch, Corbin, Ky.; Shannon Whittenberg, Louisville, Ky.; Deborah Hayley Wilkerson, Berea, Ky.; Ethan Worley, London, Ky.; and Emily Wu, Shanghai, China.

"Alpha Lambda Delta emphasizes that educated persons have a responsibility to have tolerance in their dealings with all persons, generosity in giving to those in need, and insight into the feelings of others," says Dr. Glenda Earwood, Executive Director of the Society. All members are challenged to make a meaningful contribution to society.

Yellow Jackets fall in All “A” Finals

■ By Jim McAlister
jmc alister@corbinnewsjournal.com

The Williamsburg Yellow Jackets fell to three-time defending All “A” champion, Middlesboro in the 13th Region Baseball Tournament at Middlesboro Thursday afternoon 8-2.

The game was much closer than the final score indicates as the Yellow Jackets missed several opportunities to keep the game close.

Junior Jonathan Teague had the highlight of the game when he hit a solo home run off Middlesboro’s Chase Roark to lead off the top of the sixth.

Williamsburg (3-1) got runners on base in every inning, but left six runners stranded throughout the game.

Senior center fielder Jared Barton led off the game with a base hit and went to second on a ground out by Donnie Bowlin. Hunter Williams drew a walk before Teague popped out to second base and Dalton Sizemore struck out to end the inning.

Micah Purdie walked to lead off the second and stole second, but he too was left stranded when Michael Dylan Rose lined out to the Middlesboro shortstop, followed by a Logan Hamblin strikeout and a ground out by Ryan Bowlin.

Middlesboro (5-0) got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the second with three runs. A two-out double by Austin Baker proved to be the difference in the inning. Timmy Helton led off the inning with a base hit to second and went to second on a passed ball.

Bowlin struck out Roark and got John Millett to ground out, sending Helton to third. Bowlin walked the next two batters before Baker came up with the big two-run hit. Baker, and Brock who was hit by a pitch, was left stranded when Thomas Epperson popped out to Williamsburg catcher Purdie.

Barton walked on his second appearance at the plate, but was gunned down when Williams hit a ground ball to second. Teague followed with a ground out to second as well.

Williamsburg got on the scoreboard in the top of the fourth when Purdie hit a one-out single down the third base line. He stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Rose walked before Hamblin struck out. Purdie then scored and Rose moved up to second on a passed ball. Roark got Ryan Bowlin to ground out to end the inning with Middlesboro on top, 3-1.

Middlesboro added two runs in the bottom of the inning when Chris Short started with a single. A sacrifice bunt by Nick Capps sent the runner to second. A walk to Baker and a successful bunt by Brock loaded the bases for Middlesboro.

Epperson hit a hard line drive back to the mound. The ball went off Bowlin’s glove and into center field as two runs scored. Bowlin got out of the inning by striking out Brock and getting Helton to fly out to right field.

Barton showed his confidence at the plate when he led off the fifth inning with a base hit. He took the 3-0 count to the left side of the field between the third baseman and shortstop for a single. However, after a strike out to Bowlin, he got caught trying to steal second. Roark struck out Williams to finish off Williamsburg in the top of the fifth.

Another two-out double by Baker saw Middlesboro score two runs in the bottom of the sixth for a 7-1 lead.

Williamsburg tried to rally in the top of the sixth when Teague blasted a Roark pitch over the left center field fence. Sizemore followed with a single to right center field. Senior Chris O’Dell went in to run for Sizemore, but was caught stealing.

Even in the seventh, the Yellow Jackets refuse to fold. With two outs, Barton drew a walk before Bowlin hit a line drive to the Middlesboro short stop to end the game.

HOME RUN HITTER: Corbin senior Trace Vorbeck hit back-to-back home runs in the loss to Pulaski Southwestern Monday. The Redhounds will play Barbourville Thursday. Below, Vorbeck trots around third as his teammates awaits the celebration.

Vorbeck blasts two home runs in loss

After winning their first two baseball games of the season, the Corbin Redhounds are on a three-game losing skid. The Redhounds lost at Wayne County Saturday, 10-9 and lost at home to Pulaski Southwestern, 11-4 Monday night.

Southwestern (3-2) broke open the game in the top of the sixth when they scored six runs on three hits, two walks and three Corbin errors.

The game was close until that point and Corbin actually led through the first four innings thanks to back-to-back home runs by senior shortstop Trace Vorbeck.

Corbin (2-3) took a 2-0 lead in the game in the bottom of the first inning when Brady Foley doubled to center field with one out. Vorbeck followed with a home run over the center field fence for the two-run lead.

The Warriors rallied with two outs in the top of the second when Stewart Russell and Elijah Hailey had back-to-back singles. However, Jacob Burchett was retired by Vorbeck in a close play to first to end the inning.

Southwestern got on the scoreboard in the top of the third when Logan Starnes hit a single just over the out-stretched glove of Vorbeck. Zack Turpin followed with a slow roller back to the mound that was mishandled and Bradley Logsdon drew a one-out walk to load the bases.

Ricky Shepherd came up with an RBI single to score Starnes and pull the Warriors within a run.

The Redhounds missed on an opportunity to add runs to its lead when Foley hit a single then stole second with Vorbeck at the plate. Foley was picked

It’s time for changes in All “A” tourneys

In 1980 the efforts of several coaches like Stan Steidel of Dayton High School, Father Ed Heile of Covington Latin and Bill Frey of Covington Holy Cross came up with the groundwork for the Kentucky All “A” Classic.

The idea was a great one for all the small Kentucky schools that seldom make it out of their districts in basketball, baseball, softball and volleyball.

Has the All “A” outgrown itself? The All “A” Classic is no longer an event for Class 1A size schools according to the KHSAA football alignment. In fact there are eight schools that are playing in Class 3A. There are 46 teams in Class 2A.

Wasn’t it the purpose of giving the smallest schools a chance of winning a state title the idea in the first place? Go back and look at the 2012 Touchstone Energy All “A” Classic Boys’ State Tournament. Only three of the 16 regional winners were true Class A schools, Barbourville, Buckhorn and Louisville Collegiate. It was a little better in the girls’ tournament where six of the 16 were “A” size schools.

In the last couple of years the small schools have begun to pull out of the All “A” Classics because they don’t feel they can compete with the bigger double-A size schools that get to play in the tournament.

It’s time this committee really looks into putting on a true All “A” Classic or changing the name of the current tournaments to Kentucky Small School Classic or something familiar. The true Class “A” schools are getting pushed to the side just like it was when consolidated schools came onto the scene.

It’s time the All “A” committee look into their organization and make it right for the “small” schools around the state.

Lady Redhounds scratch out 2-0 win over Southwestern

■ By Jim McAlister
jmc alister@corbinnewsjournal.com

The Corbin Lady Redhounds picked up a hard-fought 2-0 victory over the Pulaski Southwestern Lady Warriors Monday night in Somerset.

It was a pitcher’s duel between Corbin’s Hannah Hart and Southwestern leftie Sydney Fourman.

Neither team scored in the first six innings, but the Lady Redhounds came through in the top of the seventh with two runs. Callie Schoolcraft opened with a single followed by a base hit by Sydney Reynolds. The big hit came when Bethany Hensley smacked a two-run triple. “She came through when we needed her to,” Corbin Coach Chris Hart said. “That’s what I expect out of her.”

Hart’s daughter, Hannah, also had an outstanding game, allowing only two hits while shutting out the Lady Warriors. “She pitched a great game against a very good team. She kept them off balance all night with her junk and changeup,” he added. “We played a really good defensive game and had just one error,” Hart said.

“We’re hitting the ball all the way through the lineup and this is a very young team,” Hart said. “Five of these girls didn’t play in any varsity games last year.”

The Lady Redhounds (4-1) will face Knox Central on the road Thursday before heading to the Sunshine State of Florida for the 17th Annual Florida Beach Bash at Fort Walton Beach.

TAKING A BREAK: Sushovan Dixit takes a break in action after her gets a point against South Laurel. He and teammate, Harrison Reedy won 6-0, 6-0.

Tennis 'Hounds take win from South, Pineville

The Corbin Redhounds tennis team added two victories to its win streak with a 9-0 win over South Laurel and an 8-1 decision over Pineville.

"I am very proud of the team effort the guys put forth today," Corbin Coach Nikki Dixon said. "They have been working extremely hard in practice and it continues to show in their match play. In our pre-match talk we discussed staying focused and setting up points. I felt like the guys served really well today and I was very pleased with the outcome."

The Redhounds blitzed the South Laurel Cardinals, 9-0. Seth Heinss rolled past Austin Phelps, 6-0, 6-2, Anthony Warf shutout Jacob Hubbuch, 6-0, 6-0. Sushovan Dixit scored a shut over Tyler Kirby, 6-0, 6-0 and William Reedy didn't allow Ben McDonald a point in a 6-0, 6-0 victory.

Josh Jewell took the number five singles, beating Ethan Carahan 6-0, 6-1 and Nitkin Krishna beat John Hampton, 6-1, 6-0.

Corbin won all three doubles' matches with Josh Jewell and William Reedy winning, 6-0, 3-0. Chandler Maguet and Connor Maguet teamed up to shutout Hubbuch/McDonald, 6-0, 6-0. Dixit and Harrison Reedy rolled over Carahan and Tut Prineno, 6-0, 6-0.

Pineville scored a point against the Redhounds as number one seed, Anthony Warf lost to Luke Brooks, 5-7, 7-5, 5-7, Thursday afternoon. However, the Redhounds won the rest of the singles' matches in perfect fashion. Heinss, Dixit, William and Harrison Reedy as well as Connor Maguet won 8-0.

Heinss teamed up with Warf to win the number one doubles' 8-3. Josh Jewell and Chandler Maguet shutout Chris Harding and Dylan Gohfrdal, 8-0 and Connor Maguet and Krishna beat Chase Nelson and Andrew Proffitt, 8-0.

"With this being our third match this week the boys did not show any signs of being tired," Dixon said. "Anthony Warf came up short today but I was very pleased with the way he played. He held his composure in a very tough situation. I talked with Anthony and the boys about setting up their points to help put them in control of the points. "Anthony worked very hard on this throughout the match. I was very proud of him because after a three-hour singles match he turned around to play doubles. He knows how important all matches are because we haven't to set our region line-up yet. He knows there is a chance he is going doubles in region so he came back and played great doubles with Seth."

"Next week, we have a very big match with North Laurel and the guys want to be prepared."

US Gold Realty CELL: 521-6055

Last week we wrote about preparing your home to sell by looking at bigger and more expensive problems. Many times adding a home warranty can be a big plus. A home warranty, which usually covers the major repairs if something breaks, is not normally paid until closing and is usually around $300.00. This is sure not much money if it helps finalize the deal.

University of Cumberlands baseball team will host annual alumni weekend

On Friday, March 23rd, the University of the Cumberlands (UC) baseball team traveled to Wise, Virginia for a Mid-South Conference (MSC) showdown with the University of Virginia Wise (UVA-Wise). Both teams came into the weekend looking to improve upon their overall MSC record to move up in the standings and it was the Patriots that came away winning two of the three games.

In game one of the series Cumberlands wasted no time getting the lead as Justin Jackson (Jacksonville, FL) singled in the first inning to get on base. After stealing second and reaching third, Jackson scored on a sacrifice fly by Jared Martin (Cynthiana, KY). In the second with one out Jamison Debord (Lancaster, KY) and Jason Fibel (Lexington, KY) both singled; the Evan Bennett (Winchester, KY) hit a ground ball pass the diving third baseman to score Debord giving UC the 2-0 lead.

In the bottom of the third Wise answered back to tie the game at 2 apiece after 3 straight hits off of Patriots starter Jason Rodriguez (Corpus Christi, TX; 4-2). The tie didn't last though as the Patriots scored 2 runs in the fourth when Daniel Lokesak (Florence, KY) singled and later scored on a double by Jason Fibel, who also scored on a sac fly by Justin Jackson to take the 4-2 lead.

UC added to the lead in the fifth when Lokesak hit a double scoring Sam Pepper (Tabernacle, NJ), who walked, and Jamison Debord hit a single to score Brandon Napier (Hazard, KY) and Lokesak. UC had the 7-2 lead. In the sixth UC would score once more to go up 8-2 when Evan Bennett scored on a single by Andrew Fox (Seymour, TN).

Cumberlands starter Rodriguez settled down after giving up two runs to pitch 7 strong innings giving up 3 runs on 8 hits with 2 strikeouts. Throwing 2 scoreless innings in relief was Drew Morgan (Elizabethtown, KY) who also had 5 strikeouts.

The Patriots walked away with the 8-3 win as Rodriguez earned his fourth win of the season and the loss went to Wise's Justin Wilson.

Heading into game two Cumberlands was looking for the series clinching win as they sent Matt Adams (Atlanta, GA; 3-1) to the mound to face off against Wise's ace Ryan Crosby. It was a pitchers' duel throughout as both guys were able to keep the opposing teams hitters off balance.

CALLING: 'Cats will beat Kansas

March Madness

After the second weekend of the NCAA Tournament, I get the pleasure of leading our version of March Madness in our office pool. We started with 17 and with the three games left eight of us are in the running.

I need a little help from my favorite team, the Louisville Cardinals, to have a chance to win. I also need Kansas to knock off Ohio State. If I get those two wins only Cathy Hall can catch me and the two of us will tie. I picked Michigan State and North Carolina to reach the finals, so I can't pick up any more points.

I will finish with a 40-23 record. Hall picked Kansas and Michigan State in the championship game with the Spartans as the national champions. So, she can pick up one point.

However, it looks like Don Estep and Dr. Don Barton have the best chance of winning if Kentucky becomes the NCAA champion and they could tie for top spot. Still in the hunt are: Trevor Sherman, Trent Knuckles, Mark White and defending champion, Ralph Farmer. Who will take the title?

Final Four

We're down to the Final Four in the NCAA Basketball Tournament. Before last week's "Sweet 16" I picked Kentucky, Michigan State, Ohio State and North Carolina. The fan in me would not let me pick the Cardinals, but low and behold, the state of Kentucky is guaranteed a spot in the 2012 NCAA finals.

I am being realistic when I pick UK to defeat Louisville. The Wildcats have played better in the tournament than anyone.

Louisville has been hot since the Big East Tournament. The Cardinals are on an eight-game win streak while Kentucky, Ohio State and Kansas all lost in their conference championship game. Kentucky lost to Vanderbilt, Ohio State to Michigan State and Kansas to Baylor.

When the NCAA started a couple of weeks ago, Louisville wasn't even in the Top 25. They are still the only team in the Final Four that is not in the Top 10.

When it is all said and done I think Kentucky will top Kansas for the title.

Barger named 13th Region Player of the Year by media

Knox Central's Jonathan Barger was named the 13th Region Player of the year by the media. A poll was taken by sports-writers and sportscaster in the 13th Region to determine it's first-ever Player of the Year.

North Laurel Coach Brad Sizemore was the Coach of the Year after guiding the Jaguars to the school's first appearance in the KHSAA Sweet 16. North Laurel finished with a 21-16 record in Sizemore's first year.

The Newcomer of the Year went to South Laurel guard Zac Baxter. Baxter is a sophomore guard for the Cardinals.

Honorable Mention: Aaron Petrey, Whitley Co., Michael Powers, Whitley Co., Zach Farley, Corbin, Jared Barton, Williamsburg, Cameron Smoak, Williamsburg.

It would be Wise that cracked the scoreboard first in the second inning when they were able to push across two runs for the 2-0 lead. That would be all runs Wise would muster though as Adams went 5.2 innings allowing 2 runs on 4 hits with 4 strikeouts.

Wise's Crosby had a no-hitter going into the fourth that was broken up when Jared Martin hit a RBI single to center after a walk by Evan Bennett, who stole second, to cut the lead to 2-1. In the sixth UC still trailed, but loaded the bases after singles from Martin, Pepper, and John Doolittle (Sharpsburg, GA). Jamison Debord then hit into a fielder's choice that courtesy runner Blake Potter (Jacksboro, TN) was able to beat at second allowing Martin to score to tie the game at 2. Jason Fibel then delivered a big two out single that scored Pepper and Potter to give Cumberlands the 4-2 lead.

Wise started to rally in the sixth but was shut down when the Patriots brought in closer Quentin Bowman (Knoxville, TN) with 2 outs who struck out the first batter he faced on three straight fastballs. Bowman also pitched a scoreless seventh preserving the Patriots victory 4-2.

The win went to UC's Matt Adams while Bowman picked up his 4th save on the season. The loss was credited to Ryan Crosby.

Game three was on Saturday with Cumberlands using momentum from the first two games to take the lead 2-1 lead after the first. Justin Jackson led off the game with a walk and was later scored on a single from Evan Bennett who scored on a single by Sam Pepper.

The Patriots would be held scoreless until the last inning however, as Wise built a 7-2 lead behind two homeruns. In the third with the bases loaded Wise hitter Brett Hylton hit a grand slam that caused the Patriots to go to the bullpen. Wise struck once again in seventh off a two run homerun by Kirk Jennings.

Cumberlands starter Clint Davis (Chico, CA; 1-4) was able to go 2.2 innings allowing 5 runs on 2 hits and 5 walks. In relief was Anthony Withrow (Winchester, KY) who pitched 3.1 innings allowing no runs with one hit. Sam Pepper went the final two innings allowing 2 runs on 2 hits with 3 strikeouts.

In the last frame Cumberlands would not go away easy as Jackson lead the inning with a single and later scored on a double by Bennett. An error by the shortstop allowed Martin to reach base to have guys at first and second. After two outs an error by the third baseman got Debord on base and scored Bennett to cut the lead to 7-4. After a few pitches to Lokesak both runners were in scoring position, but after a tough battle to keep hope alive Lokesak lined out to right to end the game with the Patriots getting the loss 7-4.

Head Baseball Coach Brad Shelton had this to say about his team after the weekend, "I am proud of our effort this weekend. It is difficult to go on the road in the Mid-South Conference and win a series. We played hard all weekend and gave ourselves a chance to win all three games. Our pitching and defense were solid and we had timely hitting in game one and two. Even though we had some tough breaks in the third game, I was happy with our teams fight. We just ran out of innings. Our team has really grown over the past three weeks. I believe we will continue to improve heading into April. Hopefully we will begin to peak at the right time."

During the weekend UC will be holding their annual Alumni Weekend as they welcome back all former players that have been a part of the program's rich tradition. For more information you can contact Head Coach Brad Shelton by email at baseball@ucumberlands.edu or Alumni Services Director Dave Bergman by email at dave.bergman@ucumberlands.edu.

Lady Redhounds tennis team rolls past South Laurel, 7-2

The Corbin Lady Redhounds Tennis team defeated South Laurel Monday, 7-2.

Sydney Ledington lost the number one match to South Laurel's Neha Rao, 6-4, 6-2, but Corbin took the next five slots to take a 5-1 lead into doubles' play.

"Sydney had an opportunity early in the first set when she was up, 4-2, but could not take advantage of it," said Corbin Coach Donnie Head.

Catherine Crawford defeated Kaylyn Collette, 6-4, 6-3 in the number two singles. "Catherine played well at #2 singles in a long match," Head said. "We were just too deep for South Laurel for the rest of the team. I think we are still the team to beat in the region."

Emma Kate Carloftis rolled past South Laurel's Kate Kilburn, 8-2, while Elizabeth Jackson shut out Emily Turner, 8-0. Makayla Beecham defeated Abbi Rush, 8-3 and Ellie Jane Carloftis shut out Mackenzie Jones, 8-0.

In doubles, Corbin picked up two wins in the three matches. Emma Kate Carloftis and Elizabeth Jackson defeated Turner/Kilburn, 6-0, 6-3 in the #1 spot. Ledington and Crawford lost the number two match to Rao/Collette, 8-6. Julie Crawford and Shelby Phillips came back to win the game match over Rush/Jones, 8-1.

Brandon Hedrick leads Union past Bluefield in AAC battle

Taylor Eikenberry and Chris Fern both turned in complete-game shutouts as the Union baseball team swept both ends of an Appalachian Athletic Conference doubleheader from host Bluefield (Va.) on Monday, winning 3-0 and 6-0.

Eikenberry (Rock Falls, Ill.) allowed three hits, walked none and fanned eight as the Bulldogs won the opener 3-0. Fern (Zephyrhills, Fla.) followed with a four-hitter in fanning five and walking none in the the 6-0 victory.

The wins improve Union to 16-14 overall and 4-4 in conference play, while Bluefield falls to 18-14 and 2-8 in the AAC.

Offensively, Brandon Hedrick (Corbin, Ky.) went 3-for-7 with three RBIs and two runs scored.

Union and Bluefield will complete the series with a nine-inning contest Tuesday at noon.

Game One
Union took advantage of four Bluefield errors to push across two unearned run en route to the 3-0 victory.

Hedrick singled in a run in the first to give the Bulldogs a 1-0 advantage. Union tacked on two more runs in the fourth with Arthur Dockery (Detroit, Mich.) and Tim DeVito (Glendale, Ariz.) picking up the RBIs.

Meanwhile, Eikenberry took care of the rest. He allowed a single in the first but did not allow another base hit until the seventh when he gave up two. However, the Rams were unable to scratch out a run as the Bulldogs held on for the 3-0 decision.

Union finished with 10 hits - all singles, as Hedrick, Dockery and Joe Engle (Sidney, Ohio) all went 2-for-3.

Game Two
Fern turned in his own complete-game shutout with a four-hitter in a 6-0 Bulldog victory.

Union scored once in the second, three in the fourth and two in the fifth. Hedrick picked up a pair of RBIs, and Cory Perreault (Phoenix, Ariz.) had a two-run double.

The Bulldogs had only five hits but took advantage of four Ram errors and three walks.

Whether the Wildcats win it all or not I still firmly believe this is best UK team ever

It is possible that the Wildcats of the University of Kentucky could lose a game to either Louisville or Kansas, but even if that should occur I still firmly believe this is the best Kentucky basketball team I have every seen.

Coach John Calipari has sold this bunch of young men on being a team and they have taken to it like a duck to water.

It is going to be difficult to say goodbye to this group of young men as they leave after only one year, but it most certainly is in their best interest as it means a lifetime of financial security for the players and generations of the families to follow.

Darius Miler has taken four years and has developed into a first-round draft pick in the NBA. I don't know how he did it, but Coach Cal turned a rather shy young man into a confident force on the floor.

Doron Lamb is as solid as you get. Lamb may be the best shooter in college basketball today. Lamb is a terrific three-pointer shooter and also takes the 15-foot shot and is athletic enough to dribble drive to the basket.

Terrance Jones is now playing like

Bill Crook
Looking Back

he is in full focus. I still however wince a bit, when he goes into his motion to shoot a three-point shot.

Anthony Davis has been a phenom. A shot blocker, Anthony has been improving offensively with the throw down dunk and a nice little jump shot.

Michael Kidd-Gilchrist is all everyone said he was. Gilchrist runs the floor like a greyhound.

Kyle Wiltjer is a pure shooter and his moves around the basket are improving.

Marquis Teague has elevated his game and the puzzle is pretty complete for Coach Calapari.

Salute to Meadors

As I look around town, I see a street sign, Bird Blvd, with Frank Selvy, I see Roy Kidd Street, and I see a nice field house with the name Qzzie Burch on it. I see Campbell field and Nick Denes Stadium. The basketball floor dedicated to Harry Taylor and Edwards Gym, the Don House baseball field.

I agree that each of these tributes are well deserved. I do however, feel an individual has been overlooked, and I have written many times of what he has meant to the kids of Corbin.

Ted Meadors was a great football player for Corbin High School and went on to become an outstanding football player at Centre College.

Ted came home to Corbin, where he coached the great 1939 team which went undefeated. That 1939 team was one of only three undefeated teams in Rebound history.

Meadors later became director of the YMCA, where he meant so much to so many kids.

Those of us, who remember Ted, will always be grateful.

So the next someone campaigns for a street or a building to be named, perhaps they might consider a man who touched so many.

WIN: Hensley, Hart lead Lady 'Hounds past Southwestern Lady Warriors, 2-0

Western Hills 8, Corbin 5: Western Hills scored five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning in the Lady Kat Invitational at Bath County Saturday to come from behind to beat the Lady Redhounds, 8-5.

Corbin jumped ahead of the Lady Wolverines in the top of the first when Hannah Hart hit a single past second then scored on a Sarah Woolums base hit.

The Lady Redhounds made it 2-0 in the top of the third when Hannah Helm hit a single and scored on a Lindsay Barton base hit. Western Hills got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the inning when Sarah Coffey led off with a single. She later scored when Western Hills had consecutive hits by Brown, Owens and Barnes. Hart was able to work out of the jam and gave up just one run in the inning.

Corbin took a 5-2 lead in the game in the top of the fifth. Bethany Hensley led off with a single to left field. Hart moved Hensley to second on a sacrifice and the runner scored on a base hit by Helm. Barton sent Helm home on a single and she later scored on a double by Sydney Reynolds.

Corbin 8, Mason Co. 3: The Lady Redhounds scored seven runs in the bottom of the first inning against Mason County and went on to win the game, 8-3 in the Bath County Tournament.

Corbin took a 1-0 lead and left the bases loaded in the bottom of the first when Hensley opened the game with a single to center field. She stole second and scored on a Hart base hit to left field.

In the second, Kelly Farley led off the inning with a double. Whitley Gatliff followed with a base hit as Farley moved to third. Hensley then loaded the bases with an infield hit. Hart then drove in three runs on a double to left center field to give the Lady Redhounds a 4-0 lead. Helm's RBI single scored Hart for another run.

Corbin wasn't finished yet as Woolums answered with a single followed by a Barton base hit. Before the inning was over Helm, Woolums and Barton all scored as Corbin took an 8-0 lead in the game.

Mason County rallied in the late innings scoring twice in the fourth and once in the fifth before the time rule ended the game with Corbin on top, 8-3.

off at second, then on the next pitch Vorbeck sent another ball over the fence as Corbin took a 3-1 lead.

The Warriors came back with a run in the top of the fourth when Dusty Phelps hit a two-out single up the middle then scored on a Turpin hit to right field.

Southwestern tied the game in the top of the fifth as Shepherd led off the inning with a single to the second base side of the field. He scored on a Hainey hit down the third base line, tying the game at 3-3.

The Redhounds failed to score in the bottom of the fifth despite Foley's single up the middle. Vorbeck flew out to left field to end the inning.

Southwestern sent 12 batters to the plate in the top of the sixth against three Corbin pitchers. Three errors a couple of passed balls allowed the Warriors to break open the game.

Marcus Kuhl scored for the Redhounds in the bottom of the sixth. He drew a walked to lead off the inning then went to second on a passed ball and to third when Derek Terry grounded out to first. Zach Duncum drew a walk and Matt Jewell hit into a fielder's choice. Kuhl scored on the play.

The Warriors added two runs in the top of the seventh for the 11-4 lead. Foley got his second double of the game with two out in the bottom of the seventh. Vorbeck drew a walk, but the game ended on Kuhl's fielder's choice as the Warriors shot down Vorbeck going to second.

The Redhounds are still playing without head coach Rob Ledington, who was tossed in the loss to North Laurel. He is required to sit three games before returning. He will miss the scheduled road game to Clay County and return when the Redhounds face Barbourville Thursday.

Corbin will play in the Black Bear Invitational Friday and Saturday before heading to Hilton Head, SC., where they will play four games.

The Redhounds will take on Letcher Central Friday at 5:30 p.m. in the Harlan County Invitational Tournament. The Redhounds will play Sullivan North at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Harlan County, who picked up a 12-2 win over the Whitley County Colonels Monday will play Harriman High School of Knoxville, Friday at 8 p.m. The Black Bears will play Sullivan North at 4 p.m.

The finals of the tournament are set for Saturday afternoon at Harlan County High.

BURNING ISSUES

► Jimmie Johnson won five straight Sprint Cup championships (2006-10), but Johnson has never had a streak that equals Tony Stewart's current one. Stewart is batting .467 (seven wins in 15 races) dating back to the start of the 2011 Chase.

► Topping Stewart's current streak requires going back to 1998, when Jeff Gordon won seven times in a span of nine races. Gordon won 13 times that year.

► What separates Stewart's streak a bit is that he's done it with two crew chiefs. Darian Grubb, the championship crew chief, is now paired with Denny Hamlin at Joe Gibbs Racing. Steve Addington is now Stewart's crew chief.

► Even more fortunate than Stewart, who won the rain-shortened Auto Club 400, was Johnson, whose engine failed moments before the rain began falling. Johnson was able to escape Fontana with a 10th-place finish.

► It was Johnson's lucky week. NASCAR Chief Appellate Officer John Middlebrook rescinded the six-race suspensions of crew chief Chad Knaus and car chief Ron Malec. He also restored the 25 points assessed Johnson (and owner Rick Hendrick) for the allegedly irregular "C-Post" in Johnson's Chevy at Daytona. The penalty wasn't completely overturned, as Middlebrook left intact Knaus' $100,000 fine.

► Stewart is the season's first multiple winner. Points leader Greg Biffle has finished sixth or better in four of the five races.

► Larry McReynolds' TV comment of the week: "The drivers are using every ounce of the width of this track."

► NASCAR's glorious anachronism, Martinsville Speedway, is next. The Virginia track has been around as long as the ruling body, hosting at least one race in every season. It was a dirt track in 1949, and what is now Sprint Cup was known as Strictly Stock.

► Rain limited the Auto Club 400 to 129 laps instead of the scheduled 200.

► It's amazing how adept NASCAR's best and brightest are at avoiding wrecks when they're trying to reach the season's halfway point.

SPRINT CUP

Race: Goody's Fast Relief 500
Where: Martinsville (Va.) Speedway (.526 mi.), 500 laps/263 miles.
When: Sunday, April 1.
Last year's winner: Kevin Harvick, Chevy.
Qualifying record: Tony Stewart, Chevy, 98.083 mph, Oct. 21, 2005.

Race record: Jeff Gordon, Chevy, 82.223 mph, Sept. 22, 1996.
Last week: Rain shortened the Auto Club 400 to 129 of a scheduled 200 laps, but Tony Stewart, who was dominating the Fontana, Calif. race, pulled off the win when the forecasted rains finally arrived. Kyle Busch's Toyota crossed the finish line second to Stewart's Chevy.

NATIONWIDE

Race: O'Reilly Auto Parts 300
Where: Texas Motor Speedway, Fort Worth (1.5 mi.), 200 laps/300 miles.
When: Friday, April 13.
Last year's winner: Carl Edwards, Ford.
Qualifying record: Jeff Green, Chevy, 193.493 mph, April 5, 2002.

Race record: Kyle Busch, Toyota, 151.707 mph, April 5, 2008.
Last week: For the first time this year, a Sprint Cup regular won a Nationwide race. Joey Logano, in a Toyota, won at Auto Club Speedway in Fontana, Calif. The season's first four races went to drivers who do not compete regularly at the Cup level.

CAMPING WORLD TRUCK

Race: Kroger 250
Where: Martinsville (Va.) Speedway, (.526 mi.), 250 laps/131.5 miles.
When: Saturday, March 31.

CLINT BOWYER

SPRINT CUP SERIES

No. 15 5-HOUR ENERGY TOYOTA

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

After spending time with Richard Childress Racing, Clint Bowyer is off to a great start at Waltrip Racing. Bowyer ranks eighth in the Cup standings.

Clint's For Certain

After uncertain 2011, Bowyer has been good this season

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

The Sprint Cup season is only five races old, but Clint Bowyer has gone a long way toward eliminating the uncertainty that clouded his career during the offseason.

Bowyer, 32, made his name at Richard Childress Racing, where he won five races since joining the Cup ranks fulltime in 2006. Twice he won at New Hampshire Motor Speedway, in 2007 and 2010, and at Talladega Superspeedway, in 2010 and 2011. He also won at Richmond, in 2008.

Late in 2011, Bowyer found that, due to sponsorship issues, there was no place for him at RCR. The Emporia, Kan., native considered several offers and decided to move to Michael Waltrip Racing, where his No. 15 Toyota is sponsored by 5-hour Energy Drink.

Waltrip's team has won only twice since its inception in 2007. RCR has won 100 Cup races, dating back to 1983.

So far, so good. Bowyer ranks ninth in the Cup standings with one top-five and two top-10 finishes.

"These MWR cars have been good ever since (teammate Martin) Truex was running good at the end of last year," Bowyer said. "Just real proud of everybody.

"Looking at last year, they showed signs of brilliance, and then, I think, where they lacked was being consistent throughout the year. If we're able to go there, that's one thing that's always been my strong point. If I can continue my consistency ... that's what we're missing."

Bowyer never felt the perceived uncertainty regarding his latest career move.

"In this sport anymore, the cars are so much the same that the only real thing you're starting over with is the group of people," he said. "Sometimes change can be good and bad. There's no question that, last year, I didn't have the success that I expected and that I wanted.

"Maybe it was time to make a change, and I'll be able to answer that in a year or so. I really see a lot of potential here, a lot of things coming together at the right time for me to make a change and ride that wave on into the future."

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Keselowski

Smith

BRAD KESELOWSKI VS. BRUTON SMITH

In response to sagging attendance, Speedway Motorsports said that he would restore Bristol to its former greatness, which, according to fan responses president Bruton Smith cited, existed before the track was revived in 2007. Keselowski, who has won the past two Bristol races, understandably dissented, saying: "I think the race track is as good or better as it has ever been. I think there are other ways to make the racing better. Everyone's definition of what (to do) is a little different, but in my eyes, the track reconfiguration has helped the facility to what otherwise could have been a worse scenario."

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his take: "There isn't much question that most drivers like Bristol the way it is. Nor is there much question that the majority of fans like it better the way it used to be."

YOUR TURN

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Bobby and Danica

This Week welcomes letters to the editor, but please be aware that we have room for only a few each week. We'll do our best to select the best, but individual replies are impossible due to the bulk of mail received. Please do not send stamped and self-addressed envelopes with your letters, which should be addressed to: NASCAR This Week, The Gaston Gazette, P.O. Box 1538, Gastonia, N.C. 28053.

Dear NASCAR This Week,

I'm a huge NASCAR fan. (Texas Motor Speedway) is like a second home to me. ... I have a few questions and comments ...

First of all, what's up with Bobby Labonte? I'm a diehard fan of the Texas Tornado, but the last few years he's pretty much (broken) my heart. I mean, I don't know if he's still got it. The man's one of the best. Does his team owner not care enough to invest fully into a past champion? ...

Now on to Danica Patrick. Honestly, I couldn't be more proud of her. Not only is she beautiful, but an amazing racer. How do you feel she will be on the Cup circuit?

Nathan Harris
Abilene, Texas

Bobby Labonte's most recent Cup victory was in 2003. That's a long dry spell, and his fate is tied to whether or not he can get his team, owned by Brad Daugherty and Tad Geschickter, back up to speed. At age 47, maybe he's got a last hurrah in him. It's too early to tell if Danica Patrick is going to be "one of the greats." She's having a hard time so far and needs to do better in order to advance to Sprint Cup.

LEGENDS AND LORE

A Dodge Party in SC

The 10th race of the 1968 Grand National (now Sprint Cup) season was run at Columbia (S.C.) Speedway on April 18. Bobby Isaac drove the No. 37 K&K Insurance Dodge to victory over Charlie Glotzbach in another Dodge. The top five finishers — Isaac, Glotzbach, James Hyton, Buddy Baker and Richard Petty — all drove Chryslers. The top four were in Dodge and Petty drove a Plymouth. (Source: racing-reference.info)

FAN TIPS

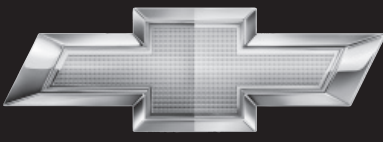

Helmets Go A Long Way

Jimmie Johnson announced his annual "Helmet of Hope" campaign at Auto Club Speedway. Blue Bunny Ice Cream is the title sponsor of the charitable program, which began in 2008. Fans, consumers and media members can nominate their favorite charities in a program that offers $10,000 grants and special recognition on Johnson's race helmets. Nominations will be accepted until May 7 at www.HelmetOfHope.org. To date, the program has contributed more than $300,000 to 49 different charities.
